Solon Says Army Bungled Costly Tank Development

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House subcommittee has charged the Army with "wasteful mismanagement," contending the service developed a new tank weapons system without suitable ammunition.

The three-member House Armed Services investigating subcommittee, headed by Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., opened an investigation Thursday into part of the Army's tank program.

Stratton said the panel would try to "determine whether the Army's achievement to date justifies the huge expenditures involved or whether the mountain has, perhaps, labored and brought forth a mouse."

He scheduled a closed hearing today to hear from the Army, which refused to allow its representatives to testify in public.

Stratton criticized the Army's secrecy. Much of the classified information, he said, "is such that one might reasonably conclude that this censorship is indeed an attempt to hide bumbling ineptness rather than to protect vital security data."

The first day's testimony centered on two new systems: the Sheridan and a modification of the M60, now the mainstay of the Army's heavy field armor.

Both are designed to fire from the same tube, 152mm anti-tank.

munition or the heat-seeking Shillelagh missile, and in both engineers encountered difficulties in developing the sophisticated new turret mechanism.

Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats said a decision to classify the Sheridan as ready for use was "inappropriate, as it resulted in the mass production and storage of weapons which could not be used as intended."

He did not reveal how many were produced altogether, but said the Army ordered 420 Sheridans for fiscal 1968, a reduction from the planned 600.

Total cost of developing and procuring the Sheridan system, including missiles and ammunition, is estimated at more than $1.3 billion through 1972.

The other system that came under scrutiny, the M60, carries an estimated price tag of $250 million.

Tiny Pharmacy Makes $328,000 From Medicaid

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer

NEON, Ky. (AP) — The sign on a narrow storefront in this mountain town of 750 says "Clarke's Pharmacy." A curious visitor might wonder how co-owner William S. Clarke Jr. scratches out a living.

But Clarke needs no condolences. That tiny store in the farthest reaches of poverty-saturated Appalachia received $328,000 from the state last year in Medicaid payments, the largest amount dispensed to any medical vendor in the state.

Without Medicaid, Clarke says, the pharmacy might do a total of $10,000 in business annually.

The report on the big Medicaid payments raised eyebrows around the state, but did not perturb Clarke, 44, a soft-spoken, bespectacled businessman who came to Kentucky from his native South Carolina a decade ago "to enjoy the clean mountain air."

But reports of large payments — to doctors and dentists, too — have prompted the state Economic Security Department to ask for a thorough federal review of the entire Medicaid program.

The state paid $10 million last year for medicine and druggists' fees.

Clarke was happy to explain how a seemingly small operation in the hinterlands of eastern Kentucky could become so profitable — although hastily adding that it's not all profit.

"It so happens that I am sitting in a nest of welfare recipients," he said.

Clarke estimated that within a five-mile radius of Neon live perhaps 15,000 people and that possibly 80 per cent are on some form of state relief, which generally entitles them to a card giving free prescriptions.

He also owns pharmacies at Jenkins, a larger town five miles from here, and in Letcher County near the Virginia line.

The Jenkins pharmacy received $125,950 last year, third highest payment to a medical vendor.

"I think Medicaid has been good to me and I think I've been good to it," Clarke said.

"I feel I've helped people, and not only in filling prescriptions. I've treated them with kindness and compassion. I've talked to them about anything they want to talk about — and these people need to talk to someone."

The welfare clients entering the small store are mostly old, often handicapped and generally talkative about seasonal matters — the snow, planting crops and the like.

Clarke said that even if he were uninformed, the Medicaid operation makes it impossible for him to "take" the state for one extra cent.

The forms are all neatly stacked in a room behind the front store portion: eye-tiring lists of the patient's medical assistance number plus numbers of the prescription and drug, date and quantity dispensed, the physician's license number, the cost of the drug and finally the professional fee.

Each prescription fee averages about $3 and thus the Neon pharmacy must fill some 200 prescriptions every day.

Heavy Snow Again Rakes Southwest U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy snow blanketed sections of Arizona and New Mexico today as the second storm to hit the region this week punched across the Southwest.

A 7-inch covering whitened Grand Canyon, Ariz., before dawn.

Three inches at Flagstaff fell atop an earlier accumulation of more than 2 feet.

Warnings of heavy snow remained in effect through the day for mountain areas of northern Arizona. Travelers were warned of hazardous conditions through northeastern New Mexico.

The weather bureau indicated the snow would spread into northwest Texas and adjacent parts of Oklahoma.

The late-season cold snap that has chilled the eastern two-thirds of the country most of the week continued to moderate, but only slightly. Subzero temperatures again were scattered from the northern Rockies into the northwestern plains.

The Southeast several degrees warmer than early Thursday, but frost nipped scattered sections for the fourth day in a row.

Snow flurried occasionally from the northern Midwest into the northern Appalachians.

Temperatures before daybreak ranged from 12 below zero at Evanston, Wyo., to 62 at Key West, Fla.

Solons Fight Change In Tax Assessments

Would Delay Court-Ordered Move To 1972

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio General Assembly is expected to pass a bill to "buy time" on an Ohio Supreme Court decision mandating a statewide uniform assessment of real property.

A bill to "head off an immediate crisis in the state" by delaying the setting of the uniform assessment until 1972 was introduced in the Ohio Senate Thursday.

The bill was sponsored by the chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee, Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati.

Maloney, the Senate's majority whip, said his committee would begin hearings on the bill next Tuesday and that it would be possible to get it through both the House and the Senate in a month.

He said the legislature "just has to pass it" because otherwise immediate compliance with the court ruling in the Park Investment Inc. case in Cuyahoga County would "create absolute chaos" in real property tax collections.

The court said that all real property in Ohio must be assessed at a uniform level of true value.

Maloney said the legislature will move fast because the State Board of Tax Appeals will begin hearings March 24 on a proposed amendment to its regulations to set a statewide uniform assessment of real property at 40 per cent.

Astronauts Make Trip To Houston

ABOARD THE USS GUADALCANA (AP) — The Apollo 9 astronauts take to the air again today.

They are scheduled to fly off the deck of this carrier on the first leg of a trip that ends with their family reunions at Ellington Air Force Base near Houston.

The crewmen, Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart, go by helicopter to the Eleuthera Auxiliary Air Force base in the Bahamas. The spacemen will transfer to a Space Agency airplane for a 60-minute flight to a refueling stop at Cape Kennedy. They'll leave there half an hour later and are expected at Ellington at 4 p.m. EST.

The space trio rode their Apollo command module to a pinpoint landing Thursday, slashing into a calm Atlantic 300 miles north of Puerto Rico within view of television cameras aboard this ship.

After more than six hours of medical tests a flight surgeon said they were in very good condition with no significant medical problems.

The spacemen emerged from sick bay shaven and neatly dressed in blue overalls and sneakers.

Israeli Jets Hit Arab Base; Suez Canal Reported Quiet

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes roared over Jordan today and hammered a suspected guerrilla pocket a few miles beyond the Jordan River and just south of the Sea of Galilee.

Witnesses reported smoke and flames rising from the Jordan Valley, and military sources said the targets were bases of the Arab commando organization Al Fatah.

The army would give no information, and no further details were available.

The Suez Canal, scene of five artillery battles in the past six days, was reported quiet.

Israeli and Egyptian gunners exchanged fire up and down the 103-mile waterway twice Thursday. Fires could be seen blazing at the Port Suez refinery complex and at Ismailia, but Cairo Radio said they were under control. Egypt also said six Egyptians had been wounded.

For the first time since the 1967 water, the shooting came within a dozen miles of Port Said, Egypt's sprawling Mediterranean port at the northern end of the canal.

Egypt claimed its guns downed three Israeli helicopters, but an Israeli spokesman denied the report. Israel reported no casualties or material losses.

An Egyptian communiqué said three Israeli missile positions were destroyed, as well as two artillery batteries, six tanks, eight mortar batteries, eight observation posts and four administrative areas.

The communiqué also claimed "the enemy suffered a large number of killed and wounded."

The Israelis said the shooting was started by Egyptian gunners who were trying to prevent Israeli forces from digging in along the cease-fire line. A high-ranking military source added, however, that the sniping at engineering and construction workers came too late to be effective.

At the United Nations in New York, Secretary-General U Thant congratulated U.N. observers for "great courage and resourcefulness" in manning their observation posts along the canal, reporting incidents and working with both sides to stop firing.

Nixon Decides To Deploy Much-Modified ABM Net

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today approval of a "new concept" of missile defense aimed primarily at protecting American missile bases, rather than cities, against nuclear attack.

It would cost $6 billion to $7 billion, he said.

Announcing his decision in a statement for his noon news conference, Nixon said plans will be shifted to provide more protection for American missile facilities and less than originally envisioned for cities.

"Although every instinct motivates me to provide the American people with complete protection against a major nuclear attack," Nixon said, "it is not now within our power to do so."

But he added: "The safety of our country requires that we should proceed now with the development and construction of the new system in a carefully phased program."

Primarily the system would be deployed to protect missile sites and Strategic Air Command bases. The sites would not be located near population centers, it was said, thus decreasing expected controversy over the program.

The source reporting on the White House meeting said the congressional leaders were told that the reduction in the scope of the proposed distribution of the missile killers would reduce the expected early costs of the program by $1 billion. Its eventual cost, however, was estimated at $6 billion.

Nixon administration officials were quoted as explaining at the meeting that there would be a great deal of flexibility about the system. They objected to calling the two original sites prototypes but it was made clear that their installation would be on an experimental basis in the beginning.

The Nixon proposal was said to have drawn strong support at the meeting from House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma and Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., head of the House Armed Services Committee.

Participants said that in contrast to this Democratic support for the President's decision, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and his assistant, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, opposed the decision to go ahead with the program.

"If the enemy de-escalates its attacks, ours will go down," he said.

His possible response to the Communist offensive was the first question raised at the news conference, and Nixon, in reply, recalled that his March 4 statement was widely interpreted as a warning against continuing assaults on cities and bases.

"It would be my policy as President to issue a warning only once, and I will not repeat it now," Nixon said. "Anything in the future that is done will be done, and there will be no repeated warning."

At the same time, Nixon said he believes there is "significant progress being made" toward private talks aimed at settlement of the conflict.

"I trust there will be private talks," he said, "I think that's where this war will be settled, in private rather than in public."

Fulbright Ends Time Of Grace For President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, with other congressional doves not far behind, has come down hard against the Nixon administration's handling of the Vietnam conflict, thus ending seven weeks of grace allowed the President to formulate his war policies.

In an interview, Fulbright broke the silence the war critics had imposed on themselves when Nixon took office to allow the new President time to try his hand where President Johnson had failed — to bring the fighting to a speedy end.

But Fulbright said, as of now, he is "extremely disappointed" in Nixon's handling of the war situation.

President Sees Possible War Escalation

Says He Won't Keep Warning Reds Of Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said today that if Communist assaults in Vietnam inflict intolerable casualties on U.S. forces, "action will take place" in response.

And Nixon said there will be no new warning to the Vietnam foe in advance of such action.

Nixon said the Communists, not his administration, stepped up combat in Vietnam. He said any escalation of the war "has been the responsibility of the enemy."

"If the enemy de-escalates its attacks, ours will go down," he said.

His possible response to the Communist offensive was the first question raised at the news conference, and Nixon, in reply, recalled that his March 4 statement was widely interpreted as a warning against continuing assaults on cities and bases.

GAO: White House Should Run 'Poor War'

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unpublished report by congressional investigators recommends that the Office of Economic Opportunity be stripped of its authority to coordinate anti-poverty programs and that the responsibility be assumed directly by the White House.

The General Accounting Office, auditing arm of Congress, concluded after a two-year study that only a firm White House effort can bring order to the multitude of anti-poverty and social welfare programs on which the federal government spends $25 billion annually.

The 200-page report, tentatively scheduled by GAO for release next week, is being kept under tight security. But several Capitol Hill end federal agency officials who have been briefed on GAO's findings told The Associated Press Thursday that the document:

—Levels its sharpest criticism at shortcomings in the administration of OEO programs and the lack of coordination between those projects and the scores of similar programs now run by more than a dozen different agencies;

—Recommends wholesale changes in the apparatus of anti-poverty operations, leaving the Community Action Programs to OEO but transferring responsibility for all other programs to the White House.

—Recommends that OEO remain responsible for innovation, a sort of research and development role;

—Recommends sweeping changes for the much-criticized Job Corps;

—Recommends consolidation of manpower training programs;

—Calls for congressional review of apparent conflicts between community action groups and neighborhood boards in the Model Cities program.

Several of the recommendations correspond with President Nixon's action last month in transferring the Job Corps from OEO to the Labor Department and the Head Start program from the anti-poverty agency to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Nixon, like GAO, recommended retention of OEO as an agency.

The report says that OEO, with a $2 billion annual budget, was given the impossible assignment of coordinating the entire federal anti-poverty effort, which includes programs ranging from welfare and unemployment benefits to educational supplements and Social Security payments.

Such responsibility, GAO suggests, should be lodged with an anti-poverty council working with the President's Urban Affairs Council. Congress authorized such a council in 1964 but President Johnson never appointed one.

Pumpkin Show Officers For 1969 Elected

Pumpkin Show Inc. held its annual election of officers Thursday, re-electing the 1968 slate.

Richard Gerhardt, by virtue of his office of Mayor of Circleville, is the president.

Ned Harden was named to serve again as vice president. Ned Dresbach was re-elected secretary and Roy Marshall, treasurer.

The Pumpkin Show Parade Committee announced the merchants parade on Friday night is being discontinued and will be replaced with a lodge night parade.

The committee said the merchants parade is being discontinued because of its length.

Marshall, in giving the treasurer's report, noted that the 1968 Pumpkin Show had a loss of $141.13. However, it was explained that the portable stage was constructed at a cost of about $1,300.

Members of the Board of Directors of the Pumpkin Show are Mrs. Guy Campbell, Thoburn Blaney, Jack Clifton, Ed Ebert, Wes Edstrom, Mrs. Willson Leist, Mrs. Sterling Poling, Larry Priest, Earl Radcliff, Clarence Radcliff, Mrs. Robert Shadley, James P. Shea, Stanley Stevens, Mrs. Frank Woodward Jr., Frank Barnhill and Francis McGinnis.

Two honorary members of the board are Ben H. Gordon and Mrs. Edward S. Stephens.

The 1969 Pumpkin Show will be held Oct. 15, 16, 17, and 18.

Fumes Blamed For 4 Deaths

CINCINNATI (AP) — The bodies of four teen-agers were found Thursday in an automobile mired in a muddy field near High Point.

The four were identified as Mary Ann DeSalvo, 15; her sister, Nancy, 13; James Cromer, 18, and Frank Schuster Jr., 18, all of the Greater Cincinnati area.

Hamilton county police said the car's tail pipe was plugged with mud, the ignition switch was on, the gas tank empty and the gear shift in park position.

Death of the youngsters apparently was due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Fire Marshal Tom Guifoyle said the fire was punctuated by several explosions and firemen worked under threat of dangerous fumes given off by burning plastics. There were no injuries, however.

Israeli Jets Hit Arab Base; Suez Canal Reported Quiet

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes roared over Jordan today and hammered a suspected guerrilla pocket a few miles beyond the Jordan River and just south of the Sea of Galilee.

Witnesses reported smoke and flames rising from the Jordan Valley, and military sources said the targets were bases of the Arab commando organization Al Fatah.

The army would give no information, and no further details were available.

The Suez Canal, scene of five artillery battles in the past six days, was reported quiet.

Israeli and Egyptian gunners exchanged fire up and down the 103-mile waterway twice Thursday. Fires could be seen blazing at the Port Suez refinery complex and at Ismailia, but Cairo Radio said they were under control. Egypt also said six Egyptians had been wounded.

For the first time since the 1967 water, the shooting came within a dozen miles of Port Said, Egypt's sprawling Mediterranean port at the northern end of the canal.

Egypt claimed its guns downed three Israeli helicopters, but an Israeli spokesman denied the report. Israel reported no casualties or material losses.

An Egyptian communique said three Israeli missile positions were destroyed, as well as two artillery batteries, six tanks, eight mortar batteries,

Nixon Decides To Deploy Much-Modified ABM Net

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today approval of a "new concept" of missile defense aimed primarily at protecting American missile bases, rather than cities, against nuclear attack.

It would cost $6 billion to $7 billion, he said.

Announcing his decision in a statement for his noon news conference, Nixon said plans will be shifted to provide more protection for American missile facilities and less than originally envisioned for cities.

"Although every instinct motivates me to provide the American people with complete protection against a major nuclear attack," Nixon said, "it is not now within our power to do so."

But he added: "The safety of our country requires that we should proceed now with the development and construction of the new system in a carefully phased program."

Primarily the system would be deployed to protect missile sites and Strategic Air Command bases. The sites would not be located near population centers, it was said, thus decreasing expected controversy over the program.

The source reporting on the White House meeting said the congressional leaders were told that the reduction in the scope of the proposed distribution of the missile killers would reduce the expected early costs of the program by $1 billion. Its eventual cost, however, was estimated at $6 billion.

Nixon administration officials were quoted as explaining at the meeting that there would be a

Roundtown

THE 1969 auto tags go on sale Monday, March 17. Evelyn Perdion, deputy registrar, reminds car owners that when they make application for 1969 registration, it will be necessary that they furnish the registrar with the 1968 license plate number issued on the vehicle. This number may be taken from the owner's 1968 registration card, or if the card has been lost, the applicant should make a record of the actual plate number to be submitted to the deputy registrar. The registrar's office in the county court house will be open 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. This schedule is in effect beginning March 17 through April 15.

Mrs. Nixon Attends Special Circus Show

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon saw her first circus in five years, a special matinee for 6,300 poor and physically handicapped children, and called it "really a great show."

"I've always loved the circus," said the President's wife, who was flanked at the performance Thursday by two 4-year-olds from an infant home.

Fulbright Ends Time Of Grace For President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, with other congressional doves not far behind, has come down hard against the Nixon administration's handling of the Vietnam conflict, thus ending seven weeks of grace allowed the President to formulate his war policies.

In an interview, Fulbright broke the silence the war critics had imposed on themselves when Nixon took office to allow the new President time to try his hand where President Johnson had failed — to bring the fighting to a speedy end.

But Fulbright said, as of now, he is "extremely disappointed" in Nixon's handling of the war situation.

The Arkansas Democrat, who heads the powerful Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that as of the moment he even feels the United States bears "greater responsibility" than

President Sees Possible War Escalation

Says He Won't Keep Warning Reds Of Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said today that if Communist assaults in Vietnam inflict intolerable casualties on U.S. forces, "action will take place" in response.

And Nixon said there will be no new warning to the Vietnam foe in advance of such action.

Nixon said the Communists, not his administration, stepped up combat in Vietnam. He said any escalation of the war "has been the responsibility of the enemy."

"If the enemy de-escalates its attacks, ours will go down," he said.

His possible response to the Communist offensive was the first question raised at the news conference, and Nixon, in reply, recalled that his March 4 statement was widely interpreted as a warning against continuing assaults on cities and bases.

"It would be my policy as President to issue a warning only once, and I will not repeat it now," Nixon said. "Anything in the future that is done will be done, and there will be no repeated warning."

At the same time, Nixon said he believes there is "significant progress being made" toward private talks aimed at settlement of the conflict.

"I trust there will be private talks," he said, "I think that's where this war will be settled, in private rather than in public."

Jet-Equipped Ejection Seat Is Blueprinted

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Plans for a jet-equipped ejection seat that would allow pilots to avoid parachuting in rough terrain are being studied by the Flight Dynamics Laboratory at Wright Patterson Air Force Base.

Two engine concepts were submitted by the Navy and the Aero Engineering Corp. of Asheville, N. C. An ejected pilot could "fly" the ejection seat at 85 to 90 miles an hour then jettison the engine and parachute in a desirable area.

The devices could be packed into the back of an ejection seat and would allow the pilot to "fly" his seat with maneuverability at 10,000 feet.

The device would have a wing area of 32 square feet, weigh about 600 pounds and would be 13 feet wide.

GAO: White House Should Run 'Poor War'

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unpublished report by congressional investigators recommends that the Office of Economic Opportunity be stripped of its authority to coordinate anti-poverty programs and that the responsibility be assumed directly by the White House.

The General Accounting Office, auditing arm of Congress, concluded after a two year study that only a firm White House effort can bring order to the multitude of anti-poverty and social welfare programs on which the federal government spends $25 billion annually.

The 200-page report, tentatively scheduled by GAO for release next week, is being kept under tight security. But several Capitol Hill end federal agency officials who have been briefed on GAO's findings told The Associated Press Thursday that the document:

- Levels its sharpest criticism at shortcomings in the administration of OEO programs and the lack of coordination between those projects and the scores of similar programs now run by more than a dozen different agencies;
- Recommends wholesale changes in the apparatus of anti-poverty operations, leaving the Community Action Programs to OEO but transferring responsibility for all other programs to the White House.
- Recommends that OEO remain responsible for innovation, a sort of research and development role;
- Recommends sweeping changes for the much-criticized Job Corps;
- Recommends consolidation of manpower training programs;
- Calls for congressional review of apparent conflicts between community action groups and neighborhood boards in the Model Cities program.

Several of the recommendations correspond with President Nixon's action last month in transferring the Job Corps from OEO to the Labor Department and the Head Start program from the anti-poverty agency to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Nixon, like GAO, recommended retention of OEO as an agency.

The report says that OEO,

with a $2 billion annual budget, was given the impossible assignment of coordinating the entire federal anti-poverty effort, which includes programs ranging from welfare and unemployment benefits to educational supplements and Social Security payments.

Such responsibility, GAO suggests, should be lodged with an anti-poverty council working with the President's Urban Affairs Council. Congress authorized such a council in 1964 but President Johnson never appointed one.

New Sergeant Named On City Police Force

LARRY PONTIOUS

Larry Pontious, a member of the Circleville Police Force since March 1, 1963, was promoted to the rank of sergeant. It was announced today by Chief of Police Robert Temple.

Pontious is the fourth sergeant on the Police Force. The post was created by the pay ordinance passed by City Council in January.

The new sergeant will be assigned temporarily to the second truck, Chief Temple said. He will assume full duties when the city police force is brought up to its authorized strength.

The force is presently three men short of its full complement of personnel.

Sgt. Pontious will be utilized as a duty and investigative sergeant until that time.

Pontious has attended an FBI School at Grove City, a 40-hour regional police officers training school and the homicide investigation school sponsored annually by Cincinnati University and the Hamilton County Prosecutor's office.

Married, Pontious and his wife Carol are the parents of three children.

Other sergeants on the force are Leroy Hawks, Richard Anderson and Rod List.

Pontious' father, William Sr., was a deputy under former sheriff Walton Spangler, and his brother, William Jr., is a member of the Police Department.

Firemen Douse 2-Acre Fire

The Circleville Fire Department extinguished a grass fire on the D. A. Marshall Farm north of the city on County Road 511 at 12:50 a.m. yesterday.

About two acres of grass were burned. No damage was listed.

At 9:25 p.m. yesterday, the department went to the saw mill located on the island road when it appeared that a burning sawdust pile might blaze out of control.

Shortly before noon today the department was called to 128 Park St., the home of Robert Wilkinson, when a furnace motor became overheated, filling the house with smoke.

PETITION — A petition containing 500 signatures of Washington Twp. residents requesting Commissioners not to locate a dump on the old county home site was presented to Commission Clerk Geneva Brink by Ned Dresbach today.

Senate OKs A-Ban Treaty; Next Move Up To Russians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty has passed the next move in damping down the arms race to the United States' would be partner in disarmament talks—the Soviet Union.

U.S. diplomats generally expected that Moscow would soon follow suit. The Kremlin does not have to tussle with a sometimes balky legislature in its ratification routine.

But some figured the Soviets might foot-drag a while, using the delay for such political purposes as pressuring the West Germans to join the treaty.

It takes ratification by all three original nuclear co-sponsors of the pact—the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain—to bring the treaty into force. Britain ratified last November.

Also, at least 40 other nonnuclear nations must ratify. Since the treaty was presented to the world last July 1, a total of 87 countries have signed and 10 have ratified.

A lopsided Senate vote of 83 to 15 in favor of the treaty Thursday climaxed an eight month U.S. delay caused by international tensions and domestic politics.

President Johnson sent the treaty to the Senate last July with a call for prompt ratification. The Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in August induced many senators to go slow on the pact. President Nixon, then campaigning, favored a period of delay but resubmitted the treaty to the Senate after he took office.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who floor-managed the treaty as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, beat back all amendments handily when the agreement did come up for debate.

The treaty carries two basic provisions: (1) nuclear nations pledge not to supply atomic arms to those who do not have them, and (2) the have-not countries agree not to acquire them.

the enemy in not de-escalating the fighting.

Following the bombing halt ordered last fall by President Johnson, Fulbright said, "It is my impression that we greatly increased our pacification program but did not take any other steps toward de-escalation."

"Neither side de-escalated," he went on, but "we share the greater responsibility."

And since Nixon succeeded Johnson Jan. 20, the handling of the war "hasn't progressed as I hoped it would," Fulbright said.

"I'm not a bit happy about it," Fulbright said that he has asked his committee staff to prepare a study of the degree to which action by U.S. ground forces might have triggered the current enemy offensive.

He did say President Nixon still has time to reverse what appears to him to be a "re-escalation of the war."

Fulbright didn't make direct mention of it, but President Nixon has been considering the possibility of taking some sort of retaliatory action against North Vietnam because of the recent attacks against South Vietnamese population centers.

The rooms have been redecorated and the building modernized and painted.

Legion members and guests attended the dinner and celebration.

New Sergeant Named On City Police Force

LARRY PONTIOUS

Larry Pontious, a member of the Circleville Police Force since March 1, 1963, was promoted to the rank of sergeant. It was announced today by Chief of Police Robert Temple.

Pontious is the fourth sergeant on the Police force. The post was created by the pay ordinance passed by City Council in January.

The new sergeant will be assigned temporarily to the second truck, Chief Temple said. He will assume full duties when the city police force is brought up to its authorized strength.

The force is presently three men short of its full complement of personnel.

SGT. Pontious will be utilized as a duty and investigative sergeant until that time.

Pontious has attended an FBI School at Grove City, a 40-hour regional police officers training school and the homicide investigation school sponsored annually by Cincinnati University and the Hamilton County Prosecutor's office.

Married, Pontious and his wife Carol are the parents of three children.

Other sergeants on the force are Leroy Hawks, Richard Anderson and Rod List.

Pontious' father, William Sr., was a deputy under former sheriff Walton Spangler, and his brother, William Jr., is a member of the Police Department.

Firemen Douse 2-Acre Fire

The Circleville Fire Department extinguished a grass fire on the D. A. Marshall Farm north of the city on County Road 511 at 12:50 a.m. yesterday.

About two acres of grass were burned. No damage was listed. At 9:25 p.m. yesterday, the department went to the saw mill located on the island road when it appeared that a burning sawdust pile might blaze out of control.

Shortly before noon today the department was called to 123 Park St., the home of Robert Wilkinson, when a furnace motor became overheated, filling the house with smoke.

ROTARY SPEAKER — Miss Joy Washburn, public relations representative for Columbia Gas of Ohio, was the speaker at Circleville Rotary Club meeting held noon Thursday at the L-K Restaurant.

Senate OKs A-Ban Treaty; Next Move Up To Russians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty has passed the next move in damping down the arms race to the United States' would be partner in disarmament talks—the Soviet Union.

U.S. diplomats generally expected that Moscow would soon follow suit. The Kremlin does not have to tussle with a sometimes balky legislature in its ratification route.

But some figured the Soviets might foot-drag a while, using the delay for such political purposes as pressuring the West Germans to join the treaty.

It takes ratification by all three original nuclear co-sponsors of the pact—the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain—to bring the treaty into force. Britain ratified last November.

Also, at least 40 other nonnuclear nations must ratify. Since the treaty was presented to the world last July 1, a total of 87 countries have signed and 10 have ratified.

A lopsided Senate vote of 83 to 15 in favor of the treaty Thursday climaxed an eight month U.S. delay caused by international tensions and domestic politics.

President Johnson sent the treaty to the Senate last July with a call for prompt ratification. The Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in August induced many senators to go slow on the pact. President Nixon, then campaigning, favored a period of delay but resubmitted the treaty to the Senate after he took office.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who floor-managed the treaty as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, beat back all amendments handily when the agreement did come up for debate.

The treaty carries two basic provisions: (1) nuclear nations pledge not to supply atomic arms to those who do not have them, and (2) the have-not countries agree not to acquire them.

Child's Nickname Infuriates Mom

DEAR ABBY: My problem may seem very petty to you, but it irritates me like you wouldn't believe.

I have an 11-year-old daughter named "Rebecca," a beautiful biblical name which I have always loved. My problem is that everyone calls her "Becky". All her friends, her teachers, and even our relatives (knowing how much I HATE that name) call her "Becky".

Please tell me what I can do besides correcting these people all the time. Thank you.

Study Probe Of Rebozo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee says he wants all the facts about the Small Business Administration's dealings with Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo "to determine whether the committee should proceed with a full-scale investigation."

Texas Democrat Wright Patman said Wednesday he is not satisfied with the information the SBA has provided so far.

Rebozo is the millionaire developer of a shopping center for Cuban refugee businessmen in Miami, Fla. In a unique arrangement, the SBA guaranteed 100 per cent of all the tenants' rent for 20 years, a possible maximum of $2.4 million.

He is a confidant and neighbor of President Nixon at Key Biscayne, Fla., but arrangements for the shopping center were made two years before Nixon was elected.

Thomas A. Butler, Miami regional director of the SBA, sought out Rebozo to develop the center, but the SBA said Tuesday Butler had been cleared of any impropriety.

Alligator Poacher Tells Of Fast Vanishing Illegal Trade

EDITOR'S NOTE — Before Congress is a bill which would make traffic in alligator hides a federal crime. Its passage could bring the swan song of the poacher who has hunted the great reptile—a unique survivor from the dawn of time. Here one poacher, sure his time is running out, tells what lures a hunter into the swamp on the track of the gator.

As Told to BEN FUNK Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — I'll never forget the time I first saw the eyes of the alligator, glowing like the red fires of hell through the April mists swirling over the lake.

In the eerie darkness of that warm Florida night, I could feel the hairs crawl across the back of my neck.

Fighting an urge to get out of there, I rowed my boat slowly toward the gator. He just laid there, his eyes burning holes through the gray blanket of the fog, until I was almost on top of him.

With a trembling hand, I fired a bullet at his head and all at once he was gone and there was nothing on the surface of the water but the drifting vapors.

As my shot rang out, the song of the frogs died abruptly and for two or three minutes not a sound came to me out of the night.

Then the lake erupted with startling fury, as though a depth charge had exploded below.

Girls Are Made Mostly Of Fat

TORONTO (AP) — A Minnesota doctor says girls are not made of sugar and spice—they're made mostly of fat.

Dr. W. N. Tauxe, associate professor of pathology at the University of Minnesota graduate school, told a seminar on nuclear medicine Wednesday that even girls like Twiggy are composed largely of fat.

He said he conducted tests at the Mayo Clinic that showed up to age 12, boys and girls have almost identical amounts of fat. But two years later boys increased their muscle mass and reduced the amount of fat, while girls did the opposite.

But, he added, some of that female fat is called "curves."

Blood and chunks of mud and grass spurted to the surface. It seemed like the alligator stayed down there 15 minutes. Then, suddenly, the big, muddy, moss-covered thing popped up not two feet from my boat. Somehow I managed to fire another bullet into his head and he went under again, beating the lake into a froth with his long, powerful tail.

He was gone only a minute, then he surfaced and swam slowly to the bank. I beached my boat, followed him into the cattails, and drove my knife into the back of his neck.

I am a member of the army of poachers which has slaughtered the alligator until he is about to go the way of the buffalo. Ten years ago, you could drive the Tamiami Trail and see a hundred alligators. Now you'd be lucky if you saw two.

Demand for alligators in the world of fashion means there is big money in alligator hides. Walk down Fifth Avenue in New York and you'll see stylish women carrying handbags made from hides once clutched in the bloody hands of poachers like me.

Working three or four nights in the swamps, I've made as much as $400 a week selling prime hides at $5 or $6 a foot. I've known of two hunters working together killing 100 gators in a night and making $1,500 and more.

Two big Florida wholesale buyers, one in Miami and another in northwest Florida, send out runners to pick up hides from poachers.

Some hides are flown north in private planes. Others are shipped in refrigerated trucks along with fish and beef. In New York, there are no laws or regulations, so it becomes a legitimate business for the factories. Handbags sell for $200 and shoes for $70.

The Florida laws that are supposed to protect alligators are so weak the poachers laugh at them. Even when a poacher is caught, his fine is so small a night's kill will cover it.

I was a caretaker for an orange grove in central Florida when I met and killed my first alligator. I came across him while I was out on a lake on the property trying to get some froglegs for dinner.

I began learning about the world of the gator poacher when

Dear Abby:

Child's Nickname Infuriates Mom

DEAR ABBY: My problem may seem very petty to you, but it irritates me like you wouldn't believe.

I have an 11-year-old daughter named "Rebecca," a beautiful biblical name which I have always loved. My problem is that everyone calls her "Becky". All her friends, her teachers, and even our relatives (knowing how much I HATE that name) call her "Becky".

Please tell me what I can do besides correcting these people all the time. Thank you.

REBECCA'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Relax and don't make such a big deal out of it. A Rose by any other name is sometimes "Rosalie."

DEAR ABBY: Please, please print something in the paper for the benefit of people who invite friends over for an afternoon or evening and then let their small children wander in and out of the room. It's not that I don't like children. I do. I have three of my own, but when we invite people over we always get a sitter, or arrange something for the kids to do, so they won't bother us or our guests. Then if someone expressly ASKS to see the kids (this seldom happens), we take him to see the kids for just a minute.

When I go out for fun and relaxation, I don't care to be entertained by children. Mine or anybody else's.

I don't think this problem is unique with me; but is there a tactful way to tell your hostess to please remove her child from the middle of a cocktail party.

FED UP IN BARTLESVILLE

DEAR FED: There is NO "tactful" way to tell a hostess that her kids are a pain in the neck. Parents who permit their children to wander in and out of the room and "bother" guests are totally insensitive to the whole business. And for a guest to even suggest that the child be "removed" would, I'm sure, offend the hostess who would permit the intrusion in the first place.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to add my feelings to those who have something to say about pornography.

My husband and I have two grown children, 21 and 23. Also two younger ones, 6 and 9. My husband owns and operates a small book store, and in it he has all kinds of books and magazines. Some of the books and magazines could be called "pornographic," as they contain pictures of nudes and many people regard this as "dirty."

Our own children have been around books and magazines such as these all their lives, and they wouldn't even take a second look at a "dirty" picture another child might sneak to see.

If any of our children have ever wanted to know anything about sex, they have come to us.

Parents who hide pictures and sex books and make such a big mystery about sex are the ones who will have something to worry about when their children reach adolescence.

We've never had one bit of trouble with our older children, and we anticipate none from the younger ones.

Sincerely,

MR. AND MRS. E.O. CONFIDENTIAL TO GENE: The next best thing to brain is silence.

Study Probe Of Rebozo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee says he wants all the facts about the Small Business Administration's dealings with Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo "to determine whether the committee should proceed with a full-scale investigation."

Texas Democrat Wright Patman said Wednesday he is not satisfied with the information the SBA has provided so far.

Rebozo is the millionaire developer of a shopping center for Cuban refugee businessmen in Miami, Fla. In a unique arrangement, the SBA guaranteed 100 per cent of all the tenants' rent for 20 years, a possible maximum of $2.4 million.

He is a confidant and neighbor of President Nixon at Key Biscayne, Fla., but arrangements for the shopping center were made two years before Nixon was elected.

Thomas A. Butler, Miami regional director of the SBA, sought out Rebozo to develop the center, but the SBA said Tuesday Butler had been cleared of any impropriety.

Alligator Poacher Tells Of Fast Vanishing Illegal Trade

EDITOR'S NOTE — Before Congress is a bill which would make traffic in alligator hides a federal crime. on us the surface lit up like a Christmas tree. It was a poacher's paradise.

My first night out in the Glades, a friend and I killed 31 alligators along one canal. The danger and excitement have kept me at gator-poaching for nine years.

The wardens were the least of my worries. There are 5,000 square miles of the Everglades and the Florida Game Commission has a 21-man force. The wardens have to find you in that vast, wild swamp, and they have to find you with the goods. A pro seldom gets caught that way.

A bill before Congress would make it a felony to transport hides across state lines and to buy them with the knowledge that they were taken by poachers. That would stop the slaughter. Who is going to mess around with the federal government?

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Life is a marvelously wry joke played on people who take it much too seriously," said Anthony Newley, Britain's multifaceted entertainer.

Rivalled in the range of his talents only by Peter Ustinov, a man he admires, Newley can act, sing, compose music or write, direct and produce films.

He does all those things in his latest, "Can Hieronymus Merkin Ever Forget Mercy Humppe and Find True Happiness?" It is an odd and dreamlike mixture of exotica and erotica, made on the island of Malta in 12 weeks at a cost of $1.25 million, that is likely to be acclaimed by the avant-garde and confuse more stolid fans.

"I hope some day to be paid for it," said Tony a bit glumly the other day over a plate of luncheon eggs at the 21 Restaurant.

As is the case of many endowed with comic gifts, Tony's mind flits between moods of gaiety and gloom. Haunted by memories of a childhood spent in bomb-battered wartime England, he feels deeply the rest of this world's touch and the prevalence of death.

"Life is beautiful," he remarked, "but if your American children were brought up with more of a recognition—here nothing ever seems to die—their life would have added dimension it doesn't have now. Now they seem only to be killing time."

"That's why I give my children pets. Observing their natural functions makes them more aware of life and death."

Newley, largely an untaught genius, started acting at 14. He has starred in such pictures as "Oliver Twist," "The World of Sammy Lee," "Dr. Dolittle," and "Sweet November." His musical stage hits include "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off" and "The Road of the Greasepaint—the Smell of the Crowd."

One of his top songs, "What Kind of Fool Am I?", is reported to have made him financially independent for life.

Tony, married to actress Joan Collins, is 37, dark-haired, blue-eyed and still restless for new fields to try.

"I have great spurts of inertia when I can lie in a room for a week without moving," he said. "Then I have these enormous bursts of energy."

He dismisses his own tremendous versatility lightly.

"I don't really do any one job well enough to make a living out of it," he said. "But I feel that if I keep moving nobody will notice that."

"I don't think people give themselves enough credit. They all have undiscovered talents. There are other worlds of all kinds within them if they want to take the trouble to explore them."

"Anyone who hums can create a tune. I think everyone has a hit song in him—or a hit novel."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A LADY WHO HAD signed up for driving lessons demanded her money back after a single outing with the instructor assigned to her. "Had I wanted to hear language like his," she charged, "I'd have let my own husband teach me to drive!"

The writers of fiction for boys and girls in the good old days obviously were more industrious than those engaged in similar activities today.

Editor-researcher Herbert R. Mayes reports that one Howard R. Garis completed not only 15 thousand "Uncle Wiggily" adventures (of which 18 million copies were sold) but found time as well to write at least 700 other tomes, including the first 35 volumes of the "Tom Swift" and "Motor Boys" series, and the early "Bobbsey Twins" sagas.

Even more industrious was the fabulous Edward M. Stratemeyer. Under various pseudonyms he ground out the entire "Rover Boys" series, the endless "Old Glory" and "Boy Hunters" books, and in his spare time headed the Stratemeyer Literary Syndicate, which controlled a bigger share of the juvenile market than is enjoyed today by Golden Press, Random House, and Grosset and Dunlop put together. What a man!

Herb Shriner says he spent his boyhood in an Indiana hamlet so tiny that it was located between the first and second line on a Burma Shave ad. "I had to travel to the next town," insists Herb, "to discover how the poem came out."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The unpleasant memories of an anesthesia during childhood are never completely erased. Adults of any age can distinctly describe every terrorizing moment of their first hospital experience. They can remember the actual smell of the ether and the peculiar sensation associated with it.

In many instances, the removal of tonsils, or an operation for hernia, or an eye condition may have been the reason for that ether anesthesia. In a remarkable percentage of cases, this single experience may be the only hospital illness encountered until later in adult life. The terror, the recall of the nausea, and the odor of ether affect the tranquility of another hospital experience, should it become necessary. Many patients, in fact, deliberately delay an operation because they are so afraid of a repetition of their first association with ether.

The science of anesthesiology has progressed in the past twenty-five years. Ether has been replaced by a number of excellent drugs that have little or no after-effects. They are easier to take than ether, the postoperative nausea is diminished, and more important, the safety of the techniques now used is infinitely greater.

The doctors trained in the specialty of anesthesiology have expanded their horizons of understanding, which include a greater awareness of the psychological factors involved. Their support of the patient before and after surgery, coupled with their more delicate use of better and safer anesthetics, should bring great comfort to those who are planning surgery. No operation should be delayed because of the unpleasant memory of an experience that need no longer occur.

A pins and needles sensation of the feet and legs during the day and muscle cramps during the night, may be caused by some impairment of circulation of the blood through the arteries. Occasionally, nighttime cramps may occur because of the position during sleep and be unrelated to circulatory problems. These cramps are painful and frightening, but they are of no great medical importance. Some physicians suggest the use of quinine to relieve the pain and frequency of nighttime cramps. In many instances, this is very effective. The tingling sensation is known as paresthesia and when accompanied by discoloration of the feet, is of much more serious consequences. Leg cramps that occur after walking a short distance, in addition to these tingling sensations, definitely deserve to be studied to track down the basic cause. Tobacco, especially in the young and arteriosclerosis in the elderly, are the most common causes of such muscular cramps.

Nuts, especially peanuts, can be exceedingly dangerous to young children. Too often, the peanut is inhaled into the child's lung and causes a great deal of trouble. They are not sufficiently nutritious to hazard such risk.

Though he may not have succeeded, our admiration goes out to that Illinois real estate dealer whose request to do business on the Moon was turned down by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He certainly had lofty ambitions.

Somewhat we wish that realtor had been given the "go ahead." It'd be interesting to learn whether lot prices on the Moon would or would not — be sky high.

Who knows? Moon property investment may some day prove a wise move — and not nearly as lunar-tic as you may think it now sounds!

Vocalist Barbra Streisand will open a new hotel in Las Vegas in April — her fee being $1 million for a four-week stint. You might say the promoters booked her for a song — and, then again, you might not!

At long last famed grid coach Earle (Greasy) Neale finally was named to the Pro Football Hall of Fame. We certainly thought he'd be an odder choice.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Click. The camera shutter opens and closes.

The young model, chic, wide-eyed and painfully thin by all but high-fashion standards, strikes a listless pose.

"Great. Keep moving. Follow me. You move wonderfully. Nobody's quite as accomplished at the art as you are."

The model brightens. She begins to get with it, to believe in herself and in the assignment.

And the man doing the talking, J. Frederick Smith, one of the highest paid commercial photographers in New York has just taken another giant step toward selling you and me cement.

Cement? That's right. And vodka, and cars and plate glass and yeast and a lot of other sexless products that rely on just the right touch of sex in their advertisements to attract the American buyer.

Sex sells. Advertisers have known that for years.

But how does the photographer get a sweet young thing to exude sex over a sack of cement, or a piece of electronic machinery?

Smith begins by selecting the proper model for each job. "After talking to a model for five minutes, I can tell if she's right," he said.

"You have to discover that something inside every model that's important. There's more to models than just cosmetic value now."

"I know one who's performed surgery. Another's an engineer. There's depth, mentality. You have to discover it and make it work for you."

Smith is relaxed, animated and only slightly introspective as he talks in his penthouse studio in midtown Manhattan.

He's in his late 40s, but looks younger with silver hair, long, combed straight back and a frank open face easily associated with the creative artist.

When the shooting of 200 to 1,000 photographs begins, Smith starts talking behind his 35mm camera.

"Every great model—in fact every woman—loves to perform." To bring out a good performance, to imply a product with emotion, Smith builds up the models' confidence with compliments.

When the model's confident, excited about being a woman, he directs her feeling toward the product.

"Move the glass (of vodka) to your cheek. Can you feel it? Press against it. Wonderful!" Hundreds of pictures later, the model turns up in an advertisement holding a pitchfork impaling ice cubes, with a sensuous smile on her face that implies she owes her devilishness to the frosty glass of vodka in her hand.

Of course there's more to a successful picture (he dislikes the word photograph) than posing a pretty girl, Smith says.

He builds his own sets, designs costumes and pays close attention to the over-all design of the picture.

"I like to be totally involved," he said.

That's what makes it click.

Nixon Can Forget Nursery

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The tides of forensic battle over the direction of the Nixon Administration shift back and forth, as is inevitable when you have a pragmatist at the head of government. And simply because nothing is foreclosed in a fluid situation, I think it is a mistake for the conservatives to succumb to the glooms merely because some of the Cabinet staffing doesn't happen to go their way.

It is not true, for instance, that Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Bob Finch has irretrievably "lost" the South because he appointed the leftist educator, Dr. James F. Allen, known as "Mr. Busing" in New York State, as U.S. Commissioner of Education. Busing school children to achieve integrated classrooms cannot be compelled nationally, for the Supreme Court has exempted the practice from enforcement in its directions to desegregate our classrooms with "all deliberate speed." Dr. Allen will follow the federal law, not the New York law, in the conduct of his office.

As for the affront to Southern sensibilities in picking Dr. Allen, the Nixon Administration made its amends with the choice of Representative Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland to take over Ray Bliss's old job as chairman of the Republican National Committee. Morton has the blessing of the Southerners as a border state man who worked amicably with Dixie delegates at Nixon's floor manager at the Miami Beach convention last August. To the extent that the Republicans must be a "Southern strategy" party to win elections, Morton will be in there pitching.

This does not mean, however, with the 1970 Congressional races coming up, that Morton — or any other national Republican — can ignore any section of the country. And there will be two sets of voices quarreling for supremacy among the pre-election analysts contending for Nixon's ear. There are the Kevin Phillips supporters who hold to the thesis that future Republican Presidential victories will depend on the so-called united heartland of the upper South, the Southwest, and the Middle West.

Phillips, who has analyzed election statistics going back to the time of General Grant, proved to the Republican high command last November that the Civil War was indeed over and that the Republicans could take enough in the South and among the "Confederate" family emigrants to the Southwest to win without the electoral vote of New York, Pennsylvania and Michigan. The Phillips point of view will continue to be pressed at the White House, for its indefatigable champion works for Attorney General Mitchell in the Department of Justice.

But Bob Finch, for one, thinks the Republicans must pay attention to shifting age categories as well as to the geographical pattern of the 1968 vote in estimating the Republican future. At one time Finch thought the 1968 election could turn out to be the last Presidential election decided by the affluent middle-aged in the middle class. Finch hears the patter of little feet, and has apparently been impressed by the statistic that says a majority of Americans will be under 21 by 1970. Sensing new gold to be mined in the adolescent category, Senator Ed Muskie of Maine, who has eyes on the Democratic Presidential nomination, plans to stump the country in favor of lowering the voting age to 18. But even without the 18-year-olds going to the polls, the coming increase of voters in the 21-to-30 age categories presents the problem of an overlay on the geographical voting pattern.

Too much can undoubtedly be made of this. The young 18-year-old radical may, as a married man with a job and children, be an entirely different person at, say, age 26. And the fact that more than half the U.S. population will be under 21 by 1970 will remain relatively meaningless to the election dopesters as long as most states resist the drive to lower the voting age. Even if 18-year-olds could vote, it would bring only three out of twenty-one in the under-21 grouping to bear on the situation. Nixon doesn't have to bother with the nursery for 1972.

Still, the President, as party leader, must be aware of what is happening in the strife-torn colleges to set voting philosophies that may very well persist into the middle twenties. The Kevin Phillips thesis will continue to have priority in any sensible Republican calculations. But it won't hurt to have Bob Finch keeping a weather eye on the young, at least in a few critical states such as California.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Life is a marvelously wry joke played on people who take it much too seriously," said Anthony Newley, Britain's multifaceted entertainer.

Rivalled in the range of his talents only by Peter Ustinov, a man he admires, Newley can act, sing, compose music or write, direct and produce films.

He does all those things in his latest, "Can Hieronymus Merkin Ever Forget Mercy Humppe and Find True Happiness?" It is an odd and dreamlike mixture of exotica and erotica, made on the island of Malta in 12 weeks at a cost of $1.25 million, that is likely to be acclaimed by the avant-garde and confuse more stolid fans.

"I hope some day to be paid for it," said Tony a bit glumly the other day over a plate of luncheon eggs at the 21 Restaurant.

As is the case of many endowed with comic gifts, Tony's mind flits between moods of gaiety and gloom. Haunted by memories of a childhood spent in bomb-battered wartime England, he feels deeply the rest of this world's touch and the prevalence of death.

"Life is beautiful," he remarked, "but if your American children were brought up with more of a recognition—here nothing ever seems to die—their life would have added dimension it doesn't have now. Now they seem only to be killing time."

"That's why I give my children pets. Observing their natural functions makes them more aware of life and death."

Newley, largely an untalented genius, started acting at 14. He has starred in such pictures as "Oliver Twist," "The World of Sammy Lee," "Dr. Dolittle," and "Sweet November." His musical stage hits include "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off" and "The Road of the Greasepaint—The Smell of the Crowd."

One of his top songs, "What Kind of Fool Am I?", is reported to have made him financially independent for life.

Tony, married to actress Joan Collins, is 37, dark-haired, blue-eyed and still restless for new fields to try.

"I have great spurts of inertia when I can lie in a room for a week without moving," he said. "Then I have these enormous bursts of energy."

He dismisses his own tremendous versatility lightly.

"I don't really do any one job well enough to make a living out of it," he said. "But I feel that if I keep moving nobody will notice that."

"I don't think people give themselves enough credit. They all have undiscovered talents. There are other worlds of all kinds within them if they want to take the trouble to explore them."

"Anyone who hums can create a tune. I think everyone has a hit song in him—or a hit novel."

"You were right. He never suspected that we're smuggling suitcases."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Click. The camera shutter opens and closes.

The young model, chic, wide-eyed and painfully thin by all but high-fashion standards, strikes a listless pose.

"Great. Keep moving. Follow me. You move wonderfully. Nobody's quite as accomplished at the art as you are."

The model brightens. She begins to get with it, to believe in herself and in the assignment.

And the man doing the talking, J. Frederick Smith, one of the highest paid commercial photographers in New York has just taken another giant step toward selling you and me cement.

Cement?

That's right. And vodka, and cars and plate glass and yeast and a lot of other sexless products that rely on just the right touch of sex in their advertisements to attract the American buyer.

Sex sells. Advertisers have known that for years.

But how does the photographer get a sweet young thing to exude sex over a sack of cement, or a piece of electronic machinery?

Smith begins by selecting the proper model for each job.

"After talking to a model for five minutes, I can tell if she's right," he said.

"You have to discover that something inside every model that's important. There's more to models than just cosmetic value now."

"I know one who's performed surgery. Another's an engineer. There's depth, mentality. You have to discover it and make it work for you."

Smith is relaxed, animated and only slightly introspective as he talks in his penthouse studio in midtown Manhattan.

He's in his late 40s, but looks younger with silver hair, long, combed straight back and a frank open face easily associated with the creative artist.

When the shooting of 200 to 1,000 photographs begins, Smith starts talking behind his 35mm camera.

"Every great model—in fact every woman—loves to perform." To bring out a good performance, to "imply a product with emotion," Smith builds up the models confidence with compliments.

When the model's confident, excited about being a woman, he directs her feeling toward the product.

"Move the glass (of vodka) to your cheek. Can you feel it? Press against it. Wonderful!"

Hundreds of pictures later, the model turns up in an advertisement holding a pitchfork impaling ice cubes, with a sensuous smile on her face that implies she owes her devilishness to the frosty glass of vodka in her hand.

Of course there's more to a successful picture (he dislikes the word photograph) than posing a pretty girl, Smith says.

He builds his own sets, designs costumes and pays close attention to the over-all design of the picture.

"I like to be totally involved," he said.

That's what makes it click.

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The tides of forensic battle over the direction of the Nixon Administration shift back and forth, as is inevitable when you have a pragmatist at the head of government. And simply because nothing is foreclosed in a fluid situation, I think it is a mistake for the conservatives to succumb to the glooms merely because some of the Cabinet staffing doesn't happen to go their way.

It is not true, for instance, that Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Bob Finch has irretrievably "lost" the South because he appointed the leftist educator, Dr. James F. Allen, known as "Mr. Busing" in New York State, as U.S. Commissioner of Education. Busing school-children to achieve integrated classrooms cannot be compelled nationally, for the Supreme Court has exempted the practice from enforcement in its directions to desegregate our classrooms with "all deliberate speed." Dr. Allen will follow the federal law, not the New York law, in the conduct of his office.

As for the affront to Southern sensibilities in picking Dr. Allen, the Nixon Administration made its amends with the choice of Representative Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland to take over Ray Bliss's old job as chairman of the Republican National Committee. Morton has the blessing of the Southerners as a border state man who worked amicably with Dixie delegates at Nixon's floor manager at the Miami Beach convention last August. To the extent that the Republicans must be a "Southern strategy" party to win elections, Morton will be in there pitching.

This does not mean, however, with the 1970 Congressional races coming up, that Morton—or any other national Republican—can ignore any section of the country. And there will be two sets of voices quarreling for supremacy among the pre-election analysts contending for Nixon's ear. There are the Kevin Phillips supporters who hold to the thesis that future Republican Presidential victories will depend on the so-called united heartland of the upper South, the Southwest, and the Middle West.

Phillips, who has analyzed election statistics going back to the time of General Grant, proved to the Republican high command last November that the Civil War was indeed over and that the Republicans could take enough in the South and among the "Confederate" family emigrants to the Southwest to win without the electoral vote of New York, Pennsylvania and Michigan. The Phillips point of view will continue to be pressed at the White House, for its indefatigable champion works for Attorney General Mitchell in the Department of Justice.

But Bob Finch, for one, thinks the Republicans must pay attention to shifting age categories as well as to the geographical pattern of the 1968 vote in estimating the Republican future. At one time Finch thought the 1968 election could turn out to be the last Presidential election decided by the affluent middle-aged in the middle class. Finch hears the patter of little feet, and has apparently been impressed by the statistic that says a majority of Americans will be under 21 by 1970. Sensing new gold to be mined in the adolescent category, Senator Ed Muskie of Maine, who has eyes on the Democratic Presidential nomination, plans to stump the country in favor of lowering the voting age to 18. Try and Stop Me

LADY WHO HAD signed up for driving lessons demanded her money back after a single outing with the instructor assigned to her. "Had I wanted to hear language like his," she charged, "I'd have let my own husband teach me to drive!"

The writers of fiction for boys and girls in the good old days obviously were more industrious than those engaged in similar activities today.

Editor-researcher Herbert R. Mayes reports that one Howard R. Garis completed not only 15 thousand "Uncle Wiggly" adventures (of which 18 million copies were sold) but found time as well to write at least 700 other tomes, including the first 35 volumes of the "Tom Swift" and "Motor Boys" series, and the early "Bobbsey Twins" sagas.

Even more industrious was the fabulous Edward M. Stratemeyer. Under various pseudonyms he ground out the entire "Rover Boys" series, the endless "Old Glory" and "Boy Hunters" books, and in his spare time headed the Stratemeyer Literary Syndicate, which controlled a bigger share of the juvenile market than is enjoyed today by Golden Press, Random House, and Grosset and Dunlop put together. What a man!

Herb Shriner says he spent his boyhood in an Indiana hamlet so tiny that it was located between the first and second line on a Burma Shave ad. "I had to travel to the next town," insists Herb, "to discover how the poem came out."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, March 14, the 73rd day of 1969. There are 292 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1794, Eli Whitney received a patent on his cotton gin. The invention revolutionized the South.

On this date:

In 1643, the Rhode Island colonies of Newport and Portsmouth were united.

In 1879, Albert Einstein, the physicist who originated the theory of relativity, was born in Ulm, Germany.

In 1915, during World War I, the German cruiser Dresden surrendered to the British.

In 1938, Adolf Hitler entered Vienna in triumph after the submission of Austria to his Nazi troops.

In 1945, the U.S. flag was formally raised on Iwo Jima after a hard-won victory in the Pacific war.

Ten years ago: Thousands of rebel suspects were being freed in Algeria after an amnesty decree by French President Charles de Gaulle.

Five years ago: A jury in Dallas, Tex., convicted Jack Ruby of murdering Lee Harvey Oswald, President John F. Kennedy's alleged assassin.

One year ago: The Pentagon ordered an end to KP duty for most servicemen—to free personnel for strictly military tasks and to improve food services.

Major Flooding Seen Possible In Western U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department issued today an ominous warning of possible spring floods caused by melting of near-record snow accumulations in many parts of the West.

The U.S. Soil Conservation Service said that as of March 1 some forecasts for water run-off caused by melting snow this spring are "three to five times" the normal amount.

Officials said mountain snow packs continued to deepen during February, "promising one of the best irrigation seasons in years but also possible high water damage."

Many major reservoirs are being drained partially in advance of the spring melt to provide extra storage space for the expected heavy flow, the SCS said.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The unpleasant memories of an anesthesia during childhood are never completely erased. Adults of any age can distinctly describe every terrorizing moment of their first hospital experience. They can remember the actual smell of the ether and the peculiar sensation associated with it.

In many instances, the removal of tonsils, or an operation for hernia, or an eye condition may have been the reason for that ether anesthesia. In a remarkable percentage of cases, this single experience may be the only hospital illness encountered until later in adult life. The terror, the recall of the nausea, and the odor of ether affect the tranquility of another hospital experience, should it become necessary. Many patients, in fact, deliberately delay an operation because they are so afraid of a repetition of their first association with ether.

The science of anesthesiology has progressed in the past twenty-five years. Ether has been replaced by a number of excellent drugs that have little or no after-effects. They are easier to take than ether, the postoperative nausea is diminished, and more important, the safety of the techniques now used is infinitely greater.

The doctors trained in the specialty of anesthesiology have expanded their horizons of understanding, which include a greater awareness of the psychological factors involved. Their support of the patient before and after surgery, coupled with their more delicate use of better and safer anesthetics, should bring great comfort to those who are planning surgery. No operation should be delayed because of the unpleasant memory of an experience that need no longer occur.

A pins and needles sensation of the feet and legs during the day and muscle cramps during the night, may be caused by some impairment of circulation of the blood through the arteries. Occasionally, nighttime cramps may occur because of the position during sleep and be unrelated to circulatory problems. These cramps are painful and frightening, but they are of no great medical importance. Some physicians suggest the use of quinine to relieve the pain and frequency of nighttime cramps. In many instances, this is very effective. The tingling sensation is known as paresthesia and when accompanied by discoloration of the feet, is of much more serious consequences. Leg cramps that occur after walking a short distance, in addition to these tingling sensations, definitely deserve to be studied to track down the basic cause. Tobacco, especially in the young and arteriosclerosis in the elderly, are the most common causes of such muscular cramps.

Nuts, especially peanuts, can be exceedingly dangerous to young children. Too often, the peanut is inhaled into the child's lung and causes a great deal of trouble. They are not sufficiently nutritious to hazard such risk.

Dr. G. W. Hoffner resumed his full time duties as county health commissioner after having been ill for several months.

Wesley McAllister, former village blacksmith of Williamsport, died at the age of 80 in his home in the Deer creek village.

Henry Mader, managing director of the Cliftona theater, announced a special two-day stage attraction featuring "ten of the world's most celebrated bathing beauties plus the embellishment of clever singers, dancers and entertainers."

Hamilton and Ryan at 114 N. Court St., advertised that wonderful tonic, "Peptone"—new life and vigor for Spring—to quickly correct that rundown condition which follows the rigors and ailments of winter.

Popular young men and women of Circleville modeled local merchants ready-to-wear in a Spring style review at the Grand Theater.

Ashville had its fourth marshal in six months when the third man appointed to the post, resigned as law enforcement officer charging the mayor of the village with "playing politics with village jobs."

Oscar M. Howser, Clarksburg's most prominent citizen, was found dead of an apparent heart attack. He was mayor of the town, president of Commercial National Bank of that village, justice of the peace, a very prominent politician and a leader in the Democratic party.

Pile Motor Co. of 123 E. Franklin St. advertised the new Graham - Paige Model 612 motor car at prices ranging from $885 to $2,495.

Fifty mile an hour winds caused extensive damage throughout the county on March 6.

P. L. Greeno of Stoutsville discontinued selling Ford cars and took over the agency for Chevrolet.

Though he may not have succeeded, our admiration goes out to that Illinois real estate dealer whose request to do business on the Moon was turned down by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He certainly had lofty ambitions.

Somehow we wish that realtor had been given the "go ahead." It'd be interesting to learn whether lot prices on the Moon would or would not — be sky high.

Who knows? Moon property investment may some day prove a wise move — and not nearly as lunar-tic as you may think it now sounds!

Vocalist Barbra Streisand will open a new hotel in Las Vegas in April — her fee being $1 million for a four-week stint. You might say the promoters booked her for a song — and, then again, you might not!

At long last famed grid coach Earle (Greasy) Neale finally was named to the Pro Football Hall of Fame. We certainly thought he'd be an odder choice.

HEW Takes Fresh Look At Antioch

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government has decided to take another look at Antioch College's Black Studies Institute before deciding whether it violates the Civil Rights Act.

Leon Panetta, special assistant to the secretary of health, education and welfare, made the announcement Thursday after conferring with Dr. James Dixon, president of the Yellow Springs, Ohio, school.

"We need more information about what's happening at Antioch before determining whether the college is in violation of the Civil Rights Act," Panetta said.

Panetta said investigators from the Office of Education and HEW's civil rights division would personally study the situation and report back to Washington. No deadline has been set.

HEW informed Dixon Feb. 28 that the Afro-American studies institute, housed in an all-black dormitory and attended only by Negro students, appeared to be a case of discrimination in reverse against white students and in violation of antidiscrimination laws.

HEW at that time gave Antioch until March 16 to submit an acceptable desegregation plan or at least to document the college's contention that the institute was an experimental innovation. HEW said failure to comply would result in loss of $1.5 million in federal funds.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Student confrontation in Ohio is beginning to move off the campus.

In an effort to deal with "The Establishment" on its own terms college students have hired a lobbyist to work in the Ohio Legislature.

The Ohio Confederation of State University Student Governments pays ex-Kep. Vaughn F. Stocksdale $600 a year to represent them in state governmental matters affecting college students.

"We began to realize that students had done little to affect the many important educational issues considered by the legislature," says Jay Shaffer of Cincinnati, president of the Ohio State University Student Assembly. "Students were reluctant to deal with the legislature because they knew little about how the system worked. Stocksdale supplies information which makes the time we spend at the legislature more effective and more worthwhile."

Stocksdale, now a law student at Ohio State, was a member of the House Education Committee and knows many of the lawmakers with whom he must deal.

He supplies information, arranges for students to testify at committee hearings, tells what education-related bills are upcoming and advises the students as to their approach on bills they support or oppose.

"I think the legislators are impressed that the students are trying to influence government through accepted channels," says Stocksdale. "They like it better than all the protests."

Shaffer and Stocksdale said they decided to concentrate on three issues facing the legislature. They include a bill to lower the voting age to 19; the general problem of funding higher education and a proposal which would place a student and faculty member on the boards of trustees of state universities.

The bill to lower the voting age, already passed by the Ohio Senate, now is before the House. If approved by the House it will be placed on the November election ballot. Stocksdale testified for the bill before a Senate committee hearing and arranged for other students to testify.

The proposal to place a student on the boards of trustees has been received with enthusiasm by most Ohio college students. "One student will no greatly affect the actions of the college trustees," Stocksdale says, "but at least he will be able to present them the ideas of the students."

"This measure would allow a student to represent student opinions before the trustees," Shaffer says. "Presently Ohio ice G.) Fawcett presents the students' case to the board."

"If the student trustee works effectively," says Nick Licata, president of the Bowling Green State University student body. "It could lessen the student frustration which often leads to confrontation."

"It is unusual for college students to hire a lobbyist," says state senator Robin Turner, chairman of the Senate Elections, Commerce and Labor Committee. "But it isn't unusual for students to try to influence us."

"I don't think Stocksdale represents the views of all the college young people; they're just too diversified. I'm not criticizing the idea, but it isn't the only method students use to affect legislation."

"I have had little contact with him (Stocksdale)," said Sen. Oakley C. Collins, chairman of the Senate Education Committee. "It's a good idea; better than taking over buildings."

"I'm quite pleased with Stocksdale's work; it's gone beyond my expectations," Shaffer says. "He does more work than his small salary justifies."

"It's helped. We're more at ease in dealing with the legislature and it has increased the communication with the legislators."

Stocksdale said, "It should decrease the frustrations of students who think they can do nothing with the establishment. Two pieces of legislation—being able to vote and having a student on the boards of trustees—should increase the communication between students and the various governmental institutions."

"I think hiring a lobbyist is worth the effort and a trial period," says Licata. "You never really know until you've tried it."

The Jefferson Church is located on the Circleville-Tarlton Road just off Route 23 south.

HEW Takes Fresh Look At Antioch

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government has decided to take another look at Antioch College's Black Studies Institute before deciding whether it violates the Civil Rights Act.

Leon Panetta, special assistant to the secretary of health, education and welfare, made the announcement Thursday after conferring with Dr. James Dixon, president of the Yellow Springs, Ohio, school.

"We need more information about what's happening at Antioch before determining whether the college is in violation of the Civil Rights Act," Panetta said.

Panetta said investigators from the Office of Education and HEW's civil rights division would personally study the situation and report back to Washington. No deadline has been set.

HEW informed Dixon Feb. 28 that the Afro-American studies institute, housed in an all-black dormitory and attended only by Negro students, appeared to be a case of discrimination in reverse against white students and in violation of antidiscrimination laws.

HEW at that time gave Antioch until March 16 to submit an acceptable desegregation plan or at least to document the college's contention that the institute was an experimental innovation. HEW said failure to comply would result in loss of $1.5 million in federal funds.

"Following Afar Off" is the sermon topic for Sunday morning at Emmett Chapel, Springbank and Mt. Pleasant United Methodist Churches. The evening topic at Emmett Chapel will be "What Is It To Be A Christian?" The Rev. Herb McComas, evangelist from Russell, Ky., will present the sermon at Mt. Pleasant.

The sermon theme for Sunday morning at Trinity Lutheran Church will be "Faith Can Master Fear." Sr. Luther League will meet 7 p.m. in the Parish House, Sunday School board will meet 7 p.m. Tuesday in the church parlor. Mid-week Lenten service will be 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

"Peace Through The Blood" will be the sermon topic for Sunday morning at Morris Church. A revival will be held from March 23-30. Rev. Foster Jenne will be the speaker and Stanley McRoberts will lead the music.

The Sunday morning sermon topic at Calvary United Methodist Church will be "Called To Be His." One Great Hour of Sharing will be observed. Youth Fellowship will meet 6:30 p.m. at the home of Carolyn and David Wilson, 1080 Georgia Road.

"Double Vision" is the sermon topic for Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian Church. Adult Communicant Class will meet 9:20 a.m. in the pastor's study. Sr. High Westminster Fellowship will meet 7:30 p.m. Board of trustees will meet 8 p.m. Monday. Lenten service will be 7:15 p.m. and the Diaconate 8 p.m. Tuesday. Communicant Class meets 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Speakers will attend the circle meetings.

The Public Talk at Jehovah's Witnesses on Sunday morning will be "Maintaining Endurance As Job Did." R. Nickols will be the speaker. The Bible Study will be "Keep Making Straight Paths For Your Feet."

"Newness Through Repentance" is the sermon topic for Sunday morning at the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church. The evening service will be on the Apostles' Creed. Lenten service 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. WSCS will serve a Turkey Supper in the Service Center from 5-7 p.m. Thursday. Jr. Catechism Class meets 10 a.m. Saturday in Service Center. Harper Bible Class will meet 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Service Center.

Laurel Hills Methodist Church will begin revival services this Sunday beginning 7:30 p.m. Rev. Fred Ketner will be the evangelist and Rev. Joe Barnes will present the music.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Student confrontation in Ohio is beginning to move off the campus.

In an effort to deal with "The Establishment" on its own terms college students have hired a lobbyist to work in the Ohio Legislature.

The Ohio Confederation of State University Student Governments pays ex-Rex Vaughn F. Stocksdale $600 a year to represent them in state governmental matters affecting college students.

"We began to realize that students had done little to affect the many important educational issues considered by the legislature," says Jay Shaffer of Cincinnati, president of the Ohio State University Student Assembly. "Students were reluctant to deal with the legislature because they knew little about how the system worked. Stocksdale supplies information which makes the time we spend at the legislature more effective and more worthwhile."

Stocksdale, now a law student at Ohio State, was a member of the House Education Committee and knows many of the lawmakers with whom he must deal.

He supplies information, arranges for students to testify at committee hearings, tells what education-related bills are upcoming and advises the students as to their approach on bills they support or oppose.

"I think the legislators are impressed that the students are trying to influence government through accepted channels," says Stocksdale. "They like it better than all the protests."

Shaffer and Stocksdale said they decided to concentrate on three issues facing the legislature. They include a bill to lower the voting age to 19; the general problem of funding higher education and a proposal which would place a student and faculty member on the boards of trustees of state universities.

The bill to lower the voting age, already passed by the Ohio Senate, now is before the House. If approved by the House it will be placed on the November election ballot. Stocksdale testified for the bill before a Senate committee hearing and arranged for other students to testify.

The proposal to place a student on the boards of trustees has been received with enthusiasm by most Ohio college students. "One student will no greatly affect the actions of the college trustees," Stocksdale says, "but at least he will be able to present them the ideas of the students."

"This measure would allow a student to represent student opinions before the trustees," Shaffer says. "Presently Ohio ice G.) Fawcett presents the students' case to the board."

"If the student trustee works effectively," says Nick Licate, president of the Bowling Green State University student body, "It could lessen the student frustration which often leads to confrontation."

"It is unusual for college students to hire a lobbyist," says state senator Robin Turner, chairman of the Senate Elections, Commerce and Labor Committee. "But it isn't unusual for students to try to influence us."

"I don't think Stocksdale represents the views of all the college young people; they're just too diversified. I'm not criticizing the idea, but it isn't the only method students use to affect legislation."

"I have had little contact with him (Stocksdale)," said Sen. Oakley C. Collins, chairman of the Senate Education Committee. "It's a good idea; better than taking over buildings."

"I'm quite pleased with Stocksdale's work; it's gone beyond my expectations," Shaffer says. "He does more work than his small salary justifies."

"It's helped. We're more at ease in dealing with the legislature and it has increased the communication with the legislators."

Stocksdale said, "It should decrease the frustrations of students who think they can do nothing with the establishment. Two pieces of legislation—being able to vote and having a student on the boards of trustees—should increase the communication between students and the various governmental

Arab Youths Stage Protest Of Occupation

TEL AVIV (AP) — Several hundred Arab youths marched into the center of occupied Gaza Thursday, waving sticks and throwing stones, but retreated before reinforced Israeli troop patrols.

Two soldiers were injured by rocks, and the students who threw them were arrested.

The Israelis, riding halftracks through the city streets in a show of strength, turned back the youths who cursed them and shouted Palestinian slogans.

It was the second straight day that occupation units were called out to suppress demonstrations in Gaza. A youth from Khan Yunis, south of the city, was fined $330 Wednesday for hurling a stone which critically wounded an Israeli soldier.

In Nabulus, on the occupied west bank of the Jordan River, schools were still being boycotted and shops were closed to protest the occupation, but no violence was reported following a riotous demonstration Wednesday.

The Authority of Jesus

JESUS RULES MEN'S THOUGHTS AND CONDUCT

Scripture—Mark 11, 12.

By R. H. RAMSEY

SINCE we again have more material than can possibly be covered in this amount of space, we will pick and choose among the 77 assigned verses in order to consider one vital aspect of our Lord's ministry among men, His authority. His verdict on what is right and wrong is a divine verdict. No one succeeds Him to teach anything on a higher level, for there is no higher level. Christ speaks with finality.

Today's lesson begins with triumphal entry into Jerusalem. Jesus had left Jericho on Friday morning, reaching Bethany that evening before the Sabbath began. There He and the disciples spent the Sabbath in the home of Lazarus, Mary and Martha. The following evening He dined with Simon the Leper (Matthew 26:6), and was anointed by Mary.

Jerusalem was crowded with pilgrims who had come there to celebrate the Passover in the Holy City. Hearing of Jesus' presence in nearby Bethany, many of them left the city to see Him. At the same time, Jesus and the disciples were on their way to Jerusalem. The two groups met, the one from moneychangers and merchants out of the Temple.

Instead of a direct answer, Jesus offered to answer their question if they would answer one of His first: What right did John have to teach and baptize? Was his authority divine or human?

The questioners were on the horns of a dilemma. If they said John had divine authority, Jesus would ask why they had not accepted his message. If they said his authority was human, they would bring the wrath of the people down upon them.

When they refused to answer His question, Jesus declined to answer theirs directly. Instead He began speaking in parables that pictured Him as God's Son and them as husbandmen bent on seizing what belonged to Him. If the people who had gathered to listen missed the point of His parable, the Pharisees and Sadducees did not.

Jesus was challenged next by a coalition of Herodians and Pharisees. The Herodians were, apparently, Jews who supported Herod Antipas and favored collaboration with the Roman conquerors. Under ordinary circumstances, the Pharisees would not even have associated with them,

GOLDEN TEXT
"And Jesus answering said unto them, Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's."—Mark 12:17.

Jerusalem joining the other to form a triumphal escort into the city.

Fulfilling an ancient prophecy (Zechariah 9:9), Jesus rode into the city "upon a colt the foal of an ass." People spread their garments and strewed branches in His path, singing, praising God and shouting Hosanna!

The practice of buying and selling within the Temple court of the Gentiles was one of long standing. Sacrificial animals and the wine, oil and salt used in the rituals were sold, and the Greek or Roman money brought in by visitors was exchanged for the half-shekels necessary to pay the Temple tax—all of which was very profitable.

When Jesus entered the sacred enclosure and found it crowded with moneychangers and vendors, He became angry, overturning the tables and chairs and publicly rebuking the merchants with the words of the prophets.

The next day, Tuesday of Holy Week, Jesus and the disciples again went to the Temple in Jerusalem. There He was met by a group of priests, scribes and elders who questioned His authority to challenge the established customs of the people, to do such things as drive the but politics makes strange bed-fellows. The Herodians wanted to keep the political peace and the Pharisees wanted to keep religious peace. So they banded together to trap Jesus with a question on which the Jews themselves were deeply divided: Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar? Did God's law permit a religious Jew to pay taxes which supported a pagan, militaristic, corrupt dictatorship?

But Jesus was not to be taken in. He asked for a Roman coin. When it was brought He asked whose image and superscription appeared on it, and they answered, "Caesar's."

If they were using Caesar's coins and enjoying the protection and legal order of the Romans, Jesus said, it was only right that they should pay something in return. On the other hand, there were duties to God that could be summed up by a coin, and these were their responsibility as well. Debts to man and debts to God are both to be discharged, and the two spheres of duty are at once distinct and reconcilable.

Therefore, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

Urge Probe Of Lexington Drug Center

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 25-year-old Cleveland woman Wednesday testified that homosexuality and "bootlegging of barbiturates" were rampant at a federal clinic for rehabilitation of drug addicts in Lexington, Ky.

After listening to statements of Joan Cureton, U. S. District Court Chief Judge Girard E. Kalbfleisch said he may ask President Nixon or the U. S. surgeon general, to order an investigation of the clinic. The facility, one of the largest of its kind in the world, is the U. S. Public Health Services Clinical Research Center.

Miss Cureton, who last January surrendered voluntarily to federal officials in Cleveland agreed to receive treatment at the clinic, had asked the judge to allow her to continue treatment as an out patient.

"The majority of the women there are homosexual and they have approached me frequently," said Miss Cureton at the hearing.

"Drugs and pills are floating around the hospital and it is possible for any patient with money to buy barbiturates from other patients."

Kalbfleisch said he had no authority to supervise activities at the clinic and had no alternative but to order Miss Cureton to be returned to the center for further treatment.

Churches Face 'Vocation Crisis'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mixed trends are at work today in the ordained ministry, with some of the downward indexes causing sharp anxiety in the churches. However, other indicators are on the upgrade.

It's a scrambled picture. Roman Catholic leaders say the church is suffering a "vocation crisis." Among Protestant, Orthodox and Jewish bodies, the manpower supply ranges up and down.

Over-all statistics, of varying currency, suggest that there are about 25,000 fewer men serving as clergymen than were doing so two years ago—a 6 per cent drop possibly stemming in part from departures from the ministry.

The total exodus of Protestant ministers apparently has been greater than the more recent, widely reported departure of Catholic priests, of whom about 1,000 have been recorded as quitting in this country in the last two years.

However, there still are about 375,000 active American clergymen, totaling both current and past denominational data gathered by the research department of the National Council of Churches.

Also, Protestant seminary enrollment is at an all-time high. The American Association of Theological Schools, including 158 seminaries, says the 1968-69 student bodies total 28,033, a 3.7 per cent increase over the comparable figure a year ago.

The upturn continues a rise that began in 1965, reversing a seven-year downturn that hit a low of 21,025 in 1964. But most of the recent increase has been in larger, interdenominationally-linked clusters of seminaries.

Many smaller, denominational schools still were registering declines.

Roman Catholic seminary enrollment also was down by 5,541 to 39,838 this term, the decline totalling nearly 9,000 since a 1965 figure of 48,992. Before the present sharp plunge, the count had wavered for six years near a 1959 peak of 49,100.

The number of Catholic priests, totalling 59,803 also fell by 89 in 1968, the first over-all decline since 1940, and perhaps in American Catholic history, despite the continued rise in church membership.

The ranks of Catholic nuns also has dropped for two years from a 1966 high of 181,421 to 176,341 now, but the shrinkage has been only slight recently, with a possible upturn ahead.

Considering the general situation, however, Catholic Bishop John J. Wright, of Pittsburgh, says the church is facing "a major crisis in the recruiting and perseverance" of persons in religious vocations.

Various factors have been cited as the cause of the problem—the shifting, clouded image of the priesthood, the questioning of its traditional role, the clergy challenges to bishops and demands for "due process" and a voice in decisions.

Numerous Catholic educators, such as the Rt. Rev. George A. Schlichte, rector of Pope John XXIII seminary, Weston, Mass., have suggested that ending celibacy requirements would greatly increase candidates for the priesthood.

Protestant leaders also say that a blurring of clergy identity has made it harder to attract men into the ministry. Relatively low church salaries, in an inflationary economy, also has created difficulties.

When they refused to answer His question, Jesus declined to answer theirs directly. Instead He began speaking in parables that pictured Him as God's Son and them as husbandmen bent on seizing what belonged to Him. If the people who had gathered to listen missed the point of His parable, the Pharisees and Sadducees did not.

Jesus was challenged next by a coalition of Herodians and Pharisees. The Herodians were, apparently, Jews who supported Herod Antipas and favored collaboration with the Roman conquerors. Under ordinary circumstances, the Pharisees would not even have associated with them,

"And Jesus answering said unto them, Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's."—Mark 12:17.

Jerusalem joining the other to form a triumphal escort into the city.

Fulfilling an ancient prophecy (Zechariah 9:9), Jesus rode into the city "upon a colt the foal of an ass." People spread their garments and strewed branches in His path, singing, praising God and shouting Hosanna!

The practice of buying and selling within the Temple court of the Gentiles was one of long standing. Sacrificial animals and the wine, oil and salt used in the rituals were sold, and the Greek or Roman money brought in by visitors was exchanged for the half-shekels necessary to pay the Temple tax—all of which was very profitable.

When Jesus entered the sacred enclosure and found it crowded with moneychangers and vendors, He became angry, overturning the tables and chairs and publicly rebuking the merchants with the words of the prophets.

The next day, Tuesday of Holy Week, Jesus and the disciples again went to the Temple in Jerusalem. There He was met by a group of priests, scribes and elders who questioned His authority to challenge the established customs of the people, to do such things as drive the but politics makes strange bed-fellows. The Herodians wanted to keep the political peace and the Pharisees wanted to keep religious peace. So they banded together to trap Jesus with a question on which the Jews themselves were deeply divided: Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar? Did God's law permit a religious Jew to pay taxes which supported a pagan, militaristic, corrupt dictatorship?

But Jesus was not to be taken in. He asked for a Roman coin. When it was brought He asked whose image and superscription appeared on it, and they answered, "Caesar's."

If they were using Caesar's coins and enjoying the protection and legal order of the Romans, Jesus said, it was only right that they should pay something in return. On the other hand, there were duties to God that could be summed up by a coin, and these were their responsibility as well. Debts to man and debts to God are both to be discharged, and the two spheres of duty are at once distinct and reconcilable.

Therefore, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

By JACKIE ULLMAN
St. Patrick, the beloved patron saint of Ireland, was born in Bannauna, but whether this was in Scotland near the modern Dumbarton, or near Doventry in Northampton, England, is not agreed.
The saint's British name was Suet; Patrick is the Anglicized form of his Roman name, Patricius.
His life was romantic and adventurous. At the age of 16, he was captured by pirates from Ireland and carried to that island where he tended the flocks of an Ulster chieftain for six years. During these years of his slavery, he became a devoted Christian, and after his escape to France, entered monastic life.

Directed by a vision to return as a minister to Ireland, he obeyed the call in 432, and for the rest of his life worked zealously in various parts of the island. His labors were so miraculously successful that he came to be known as one who "found Ireland all heathen and left it all Christian."
There he founded over 300 churches and personally baptized over 120,000 people. Many legends grew up about the popular saint. A favorite one is that which represents him as charming the snakes of Ireland by his music so that they followed him to the seashore where they were driven into the water and drowned.
Much that is told about Saint

Patrick is little more than legendary, for though he left an autobiography, or Confession, written in crude Latin, this places emphasis on his work and not his life.
Many relics of this venerable man were held sacred for a thousand years, but in the Reformation, some were destroyed. At least one credited to him, a four-sided iron bell, is in the Museum of Arts and Sciences in Dublin. Another is an ancient stone chair on the Rock of Cashel.
Much study has been given to St. Patrick, but even the facts above are by no means accepted without controversy. All over the world, March 17 is celebrated as St. Patrick's feast day.

DECA Students Eligible To Compete In State Meet

By MICHELE HULSE
As a result of the competition at the district DECA contest held March 5 at Athens, five CHS seniors and one junior are eligible to enter the state competitive events to be held in Columbus, March 28-30.
Capturing the top positions for Circleville were Dave Kasler, who earned his honor in business math. Gary Griebel competed and won first place in the free enterprise category and Sally Long achieved top place in her job interview.
Chosen to represent the District as its 1969 DECA Sweetheart was CHS's Sandy Tracy.
Second place winners who also won the chance to compete at state level were Judy Hoffman for her achievement in the field of parliamentary law and Dennis Hollis for his job interview.
Other winners for Circleville DECA were Linda Hatfield, third place in public speaking; Barb Schuer, third in job interview category; Diane Rhodes, third in sales demonstration; Pauline Cupp, third in advertising; Linda Caudill, third in business vocabulary; and Janet Kochensperger, third place in free enterprise.

'110 In Shade' To Be CHS Senior Class Production

That's life! What is life? It is one young woman searching desperately for a husband while another has beaus galore.
It is one unsociable sheriff who hides behind a false title using it as a crutch because he doesn't have the courage to face reality.
It is the stranger who enters and leaves a life as a passing dream, bringing with him a star to brighten one's path or enlighten one's mind.

Five Students Participate In CHS Engineer Day Project

By JOE TOMLINSON, WESLEY JONES and FRANK CARTER
Five boys represented CHS for "Engineer for a Day" program sponsored by the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers, held last week.
The program is held for students who plan to enter the engineering field. It gives them a chance to see what an engineer actually does in local industry.
The boys were John Meyers, Dave Kasler, Mark Ralston, Phil Diehl and Doug Moore.
Dave Kasler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kasler of 325 Edwards Road, toured the local Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company with a mechanical engineer there. Dave commented on the tour, "I think it was a good experience and well worth the time."
Dave plans to attend the Ohio University branch in Chillicothe.
Mark Ralston, 594 N. Pickaway St., son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Ralston, toured DuPont with Mr. Horni, of the research and development department. Mark stated, "I thought the tour was excellent. My guide took great efforts to simplify his explanation of his current experiment, his equipment and his usual working day."
Doug Moore, a junior at CHS, was pleased with his tour of Owens-Illinois and said "What impressed me was the clock-work precision, how well everything worked and the size of the operation. I toured with Mr. John Farthing."
Doug plans to enter the field of chemical engineering. He resides with his parents, Mr.

and Mrs. Richard Moore, and sister, Debbie.
John Myers, son of Mr. and

New Student At Circleville

DEBBIE COMPER
By HOLLY BACH
Debbie Comper, our new student, comes to us from Chillicothe, Ohio, where she attended Chillicothe High School.
She resides at 134 Nicholas Drive with her parents, Joanne and Dale Comper and her brother, Dennis.
While at Chillicothe High School, Debbie participated in Glee Club. Although she likes Circleville better than Chillicothe, she says that Chillicothe's clubs "were really cool, and we had a lot of activities."
Debbie says she likes the kids at Circleville and that they are really nice.

Mrs. George Myers, Route 4, was another of the CHS students who toured Pittsburgh Plate Glass. When asked what impressed him most, he replied, "the efficiency of the plant. It's amazing all the uses they find for all their products." Mr. Buntz was John's guide.
John plans to enter the field of chemical engineering at OSU.
Phil Diehl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Diehl, resides at Route 3. Phil is a senior and has one brother, Bill, who is in the Air Force. His hobbies include football, basketball and track. He is a senior class officer and a member of the Stooze Club.
Phil went to DuPont and spent the day with Mr. Hatcher touring the plant. When asked what he gained from this trip he said, "I saw what jobs a civil engineer does and got a good idea of what kind of work is involved in the engineering field."
Phil is enrolled in a college prep course, and after graduation he plans to enter a college to study engineering.

Student Of The Week

DAVE LEIST
By RUTH ANN RHIL
The boy with the trumpet who "haunts" the CHS music department is Dave Leist. He resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Leist, at 430 Brown St.
Dave, who has played the trumpet for seven years, auditioned for entrance into the music department at Otterbein College last Saturday.
"I was pleased with my audition. I really like the music department at Otterbein and I'm looking forward to getting started next fall."
Dave has played in the CHS band for four years. He has performed at special services at the Trinity Lutheran Church. Last year Dave went to contest as a member of the trumpet trio which received a II rating for its performance. This year Dave received a I for his trumpet solo.
After graduation from college, he would like to teach in a small town for a few years, then go to graduate school to work for a master's degree in music.

Wells, Carter Are CHS Baseball Players Of Week

FRANKIE CARTER

By RICK SIMS and JIM BALLOU

Enthusiasm, cooperation and hustle describe CHS baseball practices. Under the direction of the new head coach, Mr. Danny Fouts, the boys are looking forward to winning season.

Two experienced ball players are being featured as the players of the week. The first is Eddie Wells, residing with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Wells. He has been a regular player since his sophomore year.

Ed plays left field and has great hitting potential. He fills his leisure time coin and stamp collecting. He lists his favorite sport as bowling.

Eddie feels the team has the possibility of having a great year. He feels Mr. Fouts is a real fine coach and goes about getting the boys ready for action with enthusiasm. The second baseballer being featured this week is Frankie Carter, 17, of 1075 Georgia Road. Frankie resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Haynes.

Frankie is a four year letterman in baseball. He has also received "the monogram" in football and basketball.

When asked about the team this year, Frankie replied, "If our pitching staff comes through, we will have a championship team." He also had this to say about the coach: "Mr. Fouts is a great coach because he makes us work hard and it takes hard work to win games."

Frank's activities, beside athletics, include membership in the First Methodist Church and the Stooze Club. He lists sports cars and soul music as his chief hobbies, and government as his favorite subject.

Pest Hunters Start Contest

By DAVE SADLER

Does anybody need to get rid of pests? If so, contact Mr. Poling's Agriculture classes March 7-21. This "Pest Hunt" is solely for the purpose of fun and to aid people rid their homes of rodents and other unwanted creatures.

The hunt has developed into a contest between the agriculture I and II classes. Each class is after such animals as sparrows, crows, rats, weasils, foxes, etc. The class that ends up with the most points will be treated to a picnic by the losers.

No student need participate. The ones that do, however, must follow strict rules.

Some rules the Agriculture classes must follow include no shooting in buildings; no destruction of property; and positively no skipping school.

To those breaking rules, points will be deducted from total class points. Since this is not a school activity, the administration is not liable for any destruction, vandalism, or any other deeds that might occur. Please help in keeping the "Pest Hunt" safe for all.

College Music Group Plans CHS Concert

Two young artists will be the featured soloists with the Otterbein College Symphony of Winds when it performs in the Circleville High School auditorium at 7:45 p.m. Thursday sponsored by Circleville High School's music department.

Dennis Wollam, from Worthington, Ohio, will play Rabaud's "Solo de Concours" for clarinet; and Alan Hovenstine will perform a trumpet solo, "Danza Allegra" by Burke-Leiden. Both soloists are seniors majoring in music education and have been recipients of the Presser Music Scholarship.

Mr. Hovenstine is principal trumpet and president of the "Symphony of Winds," past president of the student Music Educators National Conference, Otterbein chapter. Mr. Wollam is principal clarinetist of the ensemble and conducts the Pep Band which plays at all home basketball games.

Gary R. Tirey is conductor of the 65-piece ensemble, which is making its annual spring tour, and Lyle Barkhimer is associate conductor.

Music on the program will include works by Rossini, Bach, Nelly, Gliere and Shostakovich.

and basketball as well as track. His events are the high and low hurdles.

He had this statement about this year's team. "I believe that our team has a lot more balance and depth than last year's team. We definitely will be a contender for the league crown."

Dan Spradlin lives at 1120 S. Court St. with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Spradlin.

Dan's events are the high jump and the 120-yard high hurdles. He likes all sports, especially bowling.

He feels the chances are great that this year's team will take the league championship.

Golfers Ready For New Season

MIKE YOUNG

By BILL JOYCE

With warm weather just around the bend, golfers at CHS are getting ready for all their meets this spring. When all prospective members started practicing last Monday, three returning lettermen from last year's team were on the links.

Bill Adkins, a three-year veteran of the team, is looking for his fourth letter.

Bill resides at 238 E. Main St. with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Adkins. He has two brothers, John, 26, and Bob, 20.

Besides being a member of the golf team, Bill also belongs to the Key Club and band. He is enrolled in the college prep course.

When asked how this year's team should do, he replied, "If all the boys get a winning attitude, we will have a good season. I think we can win the league and place well in the district if we all get serious."

The second returning letterman is Mike Young. Mike resides at 445 N. Pickaway St. with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mack C. Young and his younger sisters. He also has an older sister, Ginger.

"I feel that we should have a much improved team over last year's and win many more matches." This was Mike's reply when asked how he thought the golf team would do this year.

BILL ADKINS

Besides golfing, Mike is vice president of the Stooze Club and is enrolled in the general course.

"This year's team has a great deal of potential and should win the SCOL. We have more experience than last year, and I am sure we will improve over last year's golf team, stated Mike Ayers.

Mike resides at 354 E. Union St. with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ayers and two sisters. His other activities include Key Club and band. He is enrolled in the college prep course.

Band, Choirs Hold Concert

By JAN CLIFTON

A concert was held in the auditorium of CHS last Friday. Circleville's concert band, directed by William O'Neil, performed the music of "America the Beautiful," "Man of La Mancha," "Chapada," "Niagara," "Festivo," "Horns-A-Plenty," and "Burnished Brass."

The choir, also directed by Mr. O'Neil, sang "Create in Me A Clean heart, O God," "Man Is As Grass," "Psalm 119," "Dry Bones," "The Water is Wide," "Do-Re-Mi," "Love is Forever," "Love Is Blue,"

"Gallant Men," and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You."

The elementary boys choir, directed by Mr. Paul Dunkle, sang "Born Free," "Oh, Suzanna," "Blue Tail Fly," and "This Land Is Your Land," featuring a solo by Alan Dray.

Songs performed at contest were featured also. They include "The Shepherdess Song," by the Triple Trio; "Go Song of Mine," by the Mixed Quartet; "March of the Spanish Soldiers," by the Saxophone Quartet; "Chanson Moderne," by Mary Housh; "Wal-Berg Concerto," by Dave Leist.

Circleville School Menu

Susan Pike. He is enrolled in the college prep course and is a member of Student Council.

Beside track, Phil participates in cross country and also enjoys swimming. His future plans include enrollment at Kent State for a degree in law.

When asked his opinion of this year's team Phil replied, "We have a good depth and strength to compete well in all invitational and have a good chance to win the league title."

Phil's events include the 880-yard run, the mile, and two mile distances.

Dick Walters resides on Route 4, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Walters. He is a member of the Stooze Club and was assistant business manager for the annual staff.

Dick is presently running for treasurer of the Student Council for next year. He enjoys all sports.

Six journalism students are on the honor roll.

Rick Sims said that Pleasant St. is not so pleasant.

St. Patrick's Day, March 17, is the national holiday for the Irish.

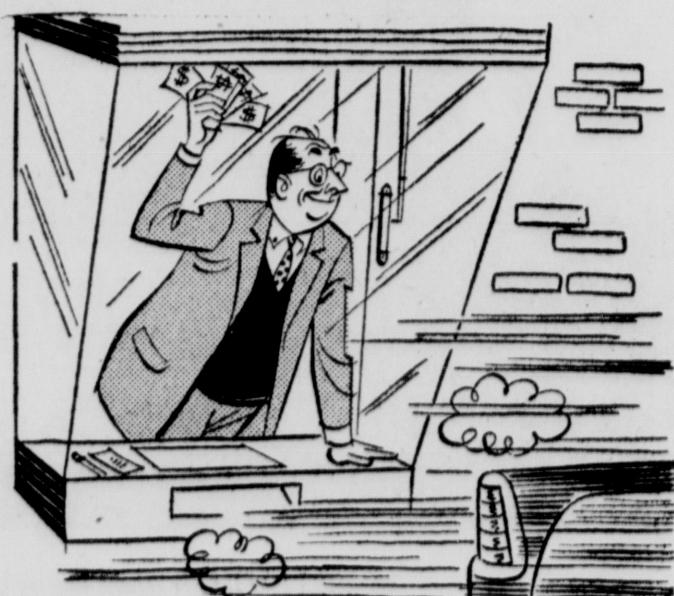

DE students attended the Gene Fullen Show today.

Marsha Baker has been accepted at Bowling Green.

In Ireland, the shamrock, three leaf clover, is worn everywhere.

The Red and Black will be headed by different editors for the remainder of the year. Last week's edition was under the direction of Joe Tomlinson and this week's is under Bev Thompson.

"Teachers are beginning to look a lot younger," say CHS students, after seeing the substitute, Mrs. Brown, this week.

Little Girl Faces Surgery;
1st Attempt Not SuccessfulBy JACK THORNTON
Of The Middletown Journal
CINCINNATI (AP) —

Amy Freshour, daughter of the police chief of Monroe, Ohio, has been confined to bed or a wheelchair since open heart surgery at Children's Hospital Feb. 17.

Mr and Mrs. Ray Freshour learned this week that their 4-year-old daughter faces two more operations as surgery Feb. 17 was not fully successful. And there is no guarantee of when she will be able to go home.

"The nurses tell us it'll be warm weather before she can leave the hospital," Freshour said.

Because of heart trouble, Amy's blood does not get enough oxygen and her skin takes on a bluish tinge around her hands, feet and face, Freshour explained. He said she also has pneumonia.

The Freshours spend a considerable portion of their days at the hospital where Amy is trying to regain strength for the next operation. Doctors said another operation will be made in about two to three years and will permanently correct her condition.

The girl gets 35 to 40 cards and letters every day, which helps cheer her up more than anything else Freshour said, but added he has doubts about a pledge he made to his daughter recently "I promised I'd take her camping this summer."

More than $11,000 in hospital bills are expected and Joe Heck, treasurer of the Monroe Religious Council has been handling donations for the "Amy Freshour Fund" set up recently.

2 Llamas Destroyed
In West Jeff Fire

WEST JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP)—Two Llamas worth $1,000 each perished today in a fire at Old McDonald's Fun Farm on the east edge of this Madison County community on U.S. 40.

A barn where the Llamas were housed along with cages and other equipment for animals was destroyed but nearby buildings escaped the flames. Owner Paul Leduc estimated the total damage at $5,000. Cause of the fire was not determined.

expecting you

On a busy night in New York—or any other city—it pays to be expected. After our wanderings we crave welcome.

There is somewhere else we are expected . . . and welcomed!

Here is an aspect of religious concern which isn't emphasized enough: Whatever you've done about it, you are conscious of the fact that you need God. But are you aware also that God needs you?

Or, putting it another way, do you realize that one of the churches in our community has been expecting you—waiting for you to add your strength to that of your neighbors, your brothers in faith?

You don't need a reservation. Only a reverent heart.

Of The Middletown Journal
CINCINNATI (AP) —

Amy Freshour, daughter of the police chief of Monroe, Ohio, has been confined to bed or a wheelchair since open heart surgery at Children's Hospital Feb. 17.

Mr and Mrs. Ray Freshour learned this week that their 4-year-old daughter faces two more operations as surgery Feb. 17 was not fully successful. And there is no guarantee of when she will be able to go home.

"The nurses tell us it'll be warm weather before she can leave the hospital," Freshour said.

Because of heart trouble, Amy's blood does not get enough oxygen and her skin takes on a bluish tinge around her hands, feet and face, Freshour explained. He said she also has pneumonia.

The Freshours spend a considerable portion of their days at the hospital where Amy is trying to regain strength for the next operation. Doctors said another operation will be made in about two to three years and will permanently correct her condition.

The girl gets 35 to 40 cards and letters every day, which helps cheer her up more than anything else Freshour said, but added he has doubts about a pledge he made to his daughter recently "I promised I'd take her camping this summer."

More than $11,000 in hospital bills are expected and Joe Heck, treasurer of the Monroe Religious Council has been handling donations for the "Amy Freshour Fund" set up recently.

2 Llamas Destroyed In West Jeff Fire

WEST JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP)—Two Llamas worth $1,000 each perished today in a fire at Old McDonald's Fun Farm on the east edge of this Madison County community on U.S. 40.

A barn where the llamas were housed along with cages and other equipment for animals was destroyed but nearby buildings escaped the flames. Owner Paul Leduc estimated the total damage at $5,000. Cause of the fire was not determined.

we've been expecting you

On a busy night in New York—or any other city—it pays to be expected. After our wanderings we crave welcome.

There is somewhere else we are expected . . . and welcomed!

Here is an aspect of religious concern which isn't emphasized enough: Whatever you've done about it, you are conscious of the fact that you need God. But are you aware also that God needs you?

Or, putting it another way, do you realize that one of the churches in our community has been expecting you—waiting for you to add your strength to that of your neighbors, your brothers in faith?

You don't need a reservation. Only a reverent heart.

Show's Premier Is Hampered By Fog Machine

NEW YORK (AP) — The season premier of the Benjamin Britten opera "Peter Grimes" was nearing its conclusion at the Metropolitan Opera Thursday night when a malfunctioning prop almost disrupted the final soliloquy by Jon Vickers, playing the title role of an English fisherman.

The scene was foggy English seacoast, and the fog rolled in on schedule from the wings.

Then it rolled on out over the orchestra, over conductor Colin Davis, and into the theater.

Some of the audience laughed. Others, perhaps reacting psychologically to the odorless water vapor, coughed. Vickers, nonplussed, sang.

Finally, assistant manager Francis Robinson ordered air conditioners activated, and the fog was cleared up.

From his cell, he said he has been in Virginia's death row for 13 years.

Wednesday, he can "hear the hum of motors, the throwing of the switch and smell the burning flesh."

Snider, in Roanoke Hustings Court for a hearing on a petition for a new trial, contended his frequently scheduled executions and last minute stays constitute cruel and unusual punishment prohibited by the constitution.

State Attorney Edward S. White, protesting Snider's testimony, said the former Gadsden, Ala., steelworker "is not qualified to testify that the death penalty is cruel unusual punishment as he has not undergone it."

Snider was sentenced to death in 1956 on a charge of raping a 9-year-old child.

In an exchange between White and Snider, the prosecutor said the convict's 13 years on death row have been his own doing, because of legal tactics, and "the commonwealth of Virginia has not kept him there."

Explaining the numerous appeals that have kept him alive, Snider said, "I am not an animal. I want to live."

The convict told the court he had lost 50 pounds since being placed on death row at the state prison in Richmond, but had gained two after being returned to Roanoke for the hearing. He said he has developed numerous illnesses, such as arthritis, asthma, rheumatism and sinus trouble.

The only exercise he gets is a weekly 14-foot walk to a shower and pacing up and down in his cell, he said.

Snider's plea for a new trial is hinged to a new U.S. Supreme Court ruling that prohibits the removal of prospective jurors opposed to capital punishment.

Judge William M. Sweeney said he would not consider the testimony given by Snider in ruling on the petition.

Admirals Start Deliberation In Pueblo Case

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher began a long wait "with some apprehension" today for a Navy court of inquiry to decide his fate following its hearings on the capture of the USS Pueblo.

The court ended its eight-week inquiry Thursday after hearing Bucher declare again, "We did not have the power to resist" seizure by North Koreans. The five admirals on the court, who earlier had warned Bucher he could be recommended for court-martial for surrendering while he still had power to resist, began 10 days of deliberation.

In his summation, Bucher's attorney, E. Miles Harvey, pleaded that the 41-year-old skipper "be returned to full duty and to occupy his rightful position in a normal career pattern."

A Navy spokesman said that under normal rotation patterns "a man with as much sea duty as Bucher just completed would get a shore assignment."

Bucher has said he wants to command another ship.

The court, which could recommend anything from court-martial to medals, will deliver "findings of fact, opinion and recommendations" to Adm. John J. Hyland, commander of the Pacific Fleet. Hyland probably will take about two weeks to review the findings, the spokesman said, and then send them to Washington, D.C. for a review "by higher authority" before they are made public.

"I'm very pleased it's all over," said his wife, Rose, who cried with him through earlier agonizing testimony of his torture during 11 months in a North Korean prison last year.

The court raised two major questions about Bucher and his 81 surviving crewmen.

1. Should they have violated the Navy's watchword, "Don't give up the ship?"

2. Should they have violated the U.S. Code of Conduct for prisoners against giving captors more than name, rank, serial number and date of birth?

The admirals questioned Bucher more sharply about the first, indicating it to be the pivotal question.

To Bucher, it was: "A question of violating his orders 'not to start a war out there.'"

"I really felt strongly about my orders not to provoke an international incident," he said. "I think this, more than anything else, guided my actions."

—A question of saving his ship or his men.

"We were completely and hopelessly outgunned. To man our .50-caliber guns would have been to send a man up to that gun and that would have been certain death."

—A question of whether he gave up or was captured.

"I prefer to feel... I never did actually surrender the ship," he said. "We were seized. The Koreans hauled my colors down."

The admirals questioned Bucher and virtually every one of his crewmen about the Code of Conduct. Court counsel said this was partly to test the modern applicability of its provisions.

Almost to a man the crewmen said they violated the letter of the code in giving personal histories, writing letters home and making false confessions to spying.

But the Pueblo case was unique, they said, in that the North Koreans captured the ship with its entire crew and many of its records intact. The men said they provided little information the North Koreans didn't already have.

"It is my considered opinion that articles... of the Code of Conduct should be reviewed in that they are difficult to reconcile when the lives of your shipmates are involved," Bucher said.

Robinett Promoted By South Central

Reno E. Robinett, a 22-year employee of South Central Power Company, has been promoted to the Public Relations and Sales Department as farm representative, according to an announcement by S. J. (Bud) Fischer, director of public relations for the locally-owned power company.

Robinett, 41, was born in Canal Winchester and graduated from Canal Winchester High School in 1945. He was employed by Ohio Midland Light and Power, a South Central power subsidiary in January of 1946 as a ground man. While employed by Ohio Midland he was called to service and spent one and one half years in the U.S. Army.

Since his return he has been in charge of the Service Department of the Hilliard Branch of South Central, returning to Canal Winchester and being named Service Department foreman there in 1956.

He and his wife, the former Eleanor Chambers, live in Canal Winchester with their three sons, David, John and Charles. Mrs. Robinett is a second grade teacher in Canal Winchester.

Robinett has also been active on the political scene in Canal Winchester. He has served on the Village Council since 1962, and is now president of that body.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Conservatives will come to the conclusion that we have gone too far. Liberals will come to the conclusion we haven't gone far enough."

That's how Rep. Keith McNamara, R - 64 Columbus described a legislative study committee report issued Thursday which, among other things, proposes a constitutional amendment to permit the state to issue bonds for middle and low income housing.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It is hard to know exactly where to address congratulations for that dramatic windup of the Apollo 9 flight.

Perhaps they should go to "all the people that made this possible," as they say at the awards ceremonies. There was the usual meticulous and expert coverage by the three television networks. There was also the precise maneuvering that brought the space craft and its crew back to earth in full sight of the television cameras. Even the weather cooperated to give Americans at home an exciting front row seat at the conclusion of a great adventure.

ABC, the network which in past summers has depended almost entirely on re-runs of winter shows, will try another tack this year. If it works, it might start something with the competition.

Beginning in May, ABC will introduce a number of new entertainment series and also reshuffle the time periods of many others. The network estimates that about one-third of its hot weather offerings will consist of new material—new series or old series with fresh shows.

Included in the plan are Dick Cavett's three-a-week series in prime time; A weekly variety hour starring Johnny Cash, and another with John Davidson. ABC's assortment of evening game and audience participation shows will continue with new programs—customary in those categories—and so will "This is Tom Jones" and "The King Sisters," both late-season starters.

Meanwhile, "Peyton Place," after all those agonizing years, will go into limbo with its final show in early June. Repeats of "The Guns of Will Sonnett" will occupy its old time spot until September, when it, too, goes to TV's Boot Hill.

Cavett's show—from 10 to 11 p.m. EST on Mondays, Tuesday and Friday—will replace "The Big Valley," "That's Life" and "Judd for the Defense." The first two have been canceled. "Judd," which returns next season, moves to an earlier time period on Friday nights.

ABC's second season, in general, has not worked out very well. "Turn On" which opened and closed in one night, established some kind of a TV record. "What's It All About, World?"—officially renamed "The Dean Jones Variety Hour" as of March 27—departs early in May. "Generation Gap" will slip away as quietly as it arrived. The shows, for the most part, produced dismal Nielsen ratings. "This is Tom Jones" and "Let's Make a Deal," which have survived haven't really done much better than the drop-outs.

There will be re-runs, of course, and they are mostly dramatic shows and situation comedies that will return next season. With production costs climbing higher each year, repeat shows are almost an economic necessity to amortize show budgets.

It is highly unlikely, however pleasant it would be for audiences, that NBC and CBS will follow ABC's lead. ABC alone will bring in more new programs next season than the other two networks combined. So on two network channels there will be the usual variety show replacements—and an occasional British import like "The Saint" but mostly it will be just another summer of twice-told tales.

Young Gives Saxbe A Hand By Slapping Down Devine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio apparently is helping his Republican colleague learn a few political tricks.

Republican Sen. William B. Saxbe recommended his former law partner, Robert Boyd of Columbus, to the Nixon administration as U.S. attorney for Southern Ohio.

Rep. Samuel L. Devine, R-Columbus, objected. He had an ex-FBI friend that he thought was better qualified.

Young, in Columbus Monday, flatly stated that Devine had nothing to do with the matter and suggested he keep out of it.

Death Penalty Action Deferred

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Expected action on a bill to end capital punishment in Ohio was deferred by the Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday after it killed an 11th hour amendment.

But the committee then agreed to reconsider the amendment, submitted by Sen. Howard Cook, R-1 Toledo, at a later date.

Cook's amendment would permit the death penalty in the murder of police officers, the slaying of prison guards and second murder convictions. He said it would "hit at the professional criminal."

A congressman, explained Young has no prerogative in patronage matters other than those within the confines of his district. He said he would block any appointment Devine tried to get by going around Saxbe.

Young applauded Nixon for taking post office jobs out of the patronage field.

He said several members of the Senate felt that the party out of power should be stuck with post office patronage "because it is such a headache."

Rep. Keith McNamara of Columbus said the Joint Legislative Committee on Sub-Standard Housing came up with a report that is "specific with flexibility."

He admitted it sounded vague in parts but said it was the only way to suggest legislation that is yet to be drafted.

"There is enough in here to offend everyone," he said as he leafed through the four-page report.

Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown will ask that an amendment be referred to the Department of Public Safety bill so his office can call for assistance if needed.

Under Ohio law, the governor or the legislature can call upon

But the bill would take most of Brown's investigative staff and bureaus and put them under the governor in the new department.

The amendment would direct the head of the new agency to cooperate with the attorney general when he is ordered into a case.

Brown may also propose that the state aid small county prosecutors in obtaining educational material on such matters as drug use and its consequences.

Brown, who has been investigating drug uses by students at the request of Gov. James A. Rhodes, said he has been impressed with what small-county prosecutors are doing within their budgets.

"They are thankful for any help they can get," an aide to Brown said. "We would like to help them more."

Find 5 Guilty In 1968 Shootout

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — A circuit court jury Thursday convicted five States Rights Party members of disorderly conduct in connection with a Berea gun battle last September in which two men were killed.

Fined $500 and sentenced to 30 days in jail were Dudley A. Hughes Jr. and R. D. Eldridge, both of Dayton, Ohio, and Peter Xavier of Savannah, Ga. Fined $500 were Jerry Pope of Williamstown and Kenneth Hale of Dayton, Ohio.

The men had been charged with violation of the state riot law after shooting erupted between party members and a number of Negroes near the end of a party rally on the outskirts of Berea. One Negro and one party member died in the exchange.

Insurance Pact Legal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An administration-initiated investigation has determined that the Department of Highways complied with Ohio law in awarding a $600,400 insurance contract to a firm headed by a longtime friend of Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The department followed all established bidding procedures before granting the liability insurance contract to Buckeye Union Insurance Co., according to John McElroy, the governor's chief aide.

Buckeye is headed by Frederick Jones, a longtime Rhodes friend. Both originally were from Jackson County.

Rhodes ordered an investigation after a newspaper report indicated that other insurance companies were not informed of the plan to cover 7,900 men who operate state owned vehicles or equipment.

In his report to the governor, McElroy said the contract, signed Dec. 12, 1968, is valid. The report included a four-page statement by Highway Director P. E. Masheter, in which he discussed the desirability of liability insurance coverage for employees who drive state-owned vehicles.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It is hard to know exactly where to place congratulations for that dramatic windup of the Apollo 9 flight.

Perhaps they should go to "all the people that made this possible," as they say at the awards ceremonies. There was the usual meticulous and expert coverage by the three television networks. There was also the precise maneuvering that brought the space craft and its crew back to earth in full sight of the television cameras. Even the weather cooperated to give Americans at home an exciting front row seat at the conclusion of a great adventure.

ABC, the network which in past summers has depended almost entirely on re-runs of winter shows, will try another tack this year. If it works, it might start something with the competition.

Beginning in May, ABC will introduce a number of new entertainment series and also reshuffle the time periods of many others. The network estimates that about one-third of its hot weather offerings will consist of new material—new series or old series with fresh shows.

Included in the plan are Dick Cavett's three-week series in prime time; A weekly variety hour starring Johnny Cash, and another with John Davidson. ABC's assortment of evening game and audience participation shows will continue with new programs—customary in those categories—and so will "This is Tom Jones" and "The King Sisters," both late-season starters.

Meanwhile, "Peyton Place," after all those agonizing years, will go into limbo with its final show in early June. Repeats of "The Guns of Will Sonnet" will occupy its old time spot until September, when it, too, goes to TV's Boot Hill.

Cavett's show—from 10 to 11 p.m. EST on Mondays, Tuesday and Friday—will replace "The Big Valley," "That's Life" and "Judd for the Defense." The first two have been canceled. "Judd," which returns next season, moves to an earlier time period on Friday nights.

ABC's second season, in general, has not worked out very well. "Turn On" which opened and closed in one night, established some kind of a TV record. "What's It All About, World?"—officially renamed "The Dean Jones Variety Hour" as of March 27—departs early in May. "Generation Gap" will slip away as quietly as it arrived. The shows, for the most part, produced dismal Nielsen ratings. "This is Tom Jones" and "Let's Make a Deal," which have survived haven't really done much better than the drop-outs.

There will be re-runs, of course, and they are mostly dramatic shows and situation comedies that will return next season. With production costs climbing higher each year, repeat shows are almost an economic necessity to amortize show budgets.

It is highly unlikely, however pleasant it would be for audiences, that NBC and CBS will follow ABC's lead. ABC alone will bring in more new programs next season than the other two networks combined. So on two network channels there will be the usual variety show replacements—and an occasional British import like "The Saint" but mostly it will be just another summer of twice-told tales.

Young Gives Saxbe A Hand By Slapping Down Devine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio apparently is helping his Republican colleague learn a few political tricks.

Republican Sen. William B. Saxbe recommended his former law partner, Robert Boyd of Columbus, to the Nixon administration as U.S. attorney for Southern Ohio.

Rep. Samuel L. Devine, R-Columbus, objected. He had an ex-FBI friend that he thought was better qualified.

Young, in Columbus Monday, flatly stated that Devine had nothing to do with the matter and suggested he keep out of it.

Death Penalty Action Deferred

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Expected action on a bill to end capital punishment in Ohio was deferred by the Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday after it killed an 11th hour amendment.

But the committee then agreed to reconsider the amendment, submitted by Sen. Howard Cook, R-1 Toledo, at a later date.

Cook's amendment would permit the death penalty in the murder of police officers, the slaying of prison guards and second murder convictions. He said it would "hit at the professional criminal."

A congressman, explained Young has no prerogative in patronage matters other than those within the confines of his district. He said he would block any appointment Devine tried to get by going around Saxbe. Young applauded Nixon for taking post office jobs out of the patronage field.

He said several members of the Senate felt that the party out of power should be stuck with post office patronage "because it is such a headache."

Rep. Keith McNamara of Columbus said the Joint Legislative Committee on Sub-Standard Housing came up with a report that is "specific with flexibility."

He admitted it sounded vague in parts but said it was the only way to suggest legislation that is yet to be drafted. "There is enough in here to offend everyone," he said as he leafed through the four-page report.

Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown will ask that an amendment be offered to the Department of Public Safety bill so his office can call for assistance if needed.

Under Ohio law, the governor or the legislature can call upon

Find 5 Guilty In 1968 Shootout

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — A circuit court jury Thursday convicted five States Rights Party members of disorderly conduct in connection with a Berea gun battle last September in which two men were killed.

Fined $500 and sentenced to 30 days in jail were Dudley A. Hughes Jr. and R. D. Eldridge, both of Dayton, Ohio, and Peter Xavier of Savannah, Ga. Fined $500 were Jerry Pope of Williamstown and Kenneth Hale of Dayton, Ohio.

The men had been charged with violation of the state riot law after shooting erupted between party members and a number of Negroes near the end of a party rally on the outskirts of Berea. One Negro and one party member died in the exchange.

Brown's office to investigate or prosecute certain matters.

But the bill would take most of Brown's investigative staff and bureaus and put them under the governor in the new department.

The amendment would direct the head of the new agency to cooperate with the attorney general when he is ordered into a case.

Brown may also propose that the state aid small county prosecutors in obtaining educational material on such matters as drug use and its consequences.

Brown, who has been investigating drug uses by students at the request of Gov. James A. Rhodes, said he has been impressed with what small-county prosecutors are doing within their budgets.

"They are thankful for any help they can get," an aide to Brown said. "We would like to help them more."

Insurance Pact Legal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An administration-initiated investigation has determined that the Department of Highways complied with Ohio law in awarding a $600,400 insurance contract to a firm headed by a longtime friend of Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The department followed all established bidding procedures before granting the liability insurance contract to Buckeye Union Insurance Co., according to John McElroy, the governor's chief aide.

Buckeye is headed by Frederick Jones, a longtime Rhodes friend. Both originally were from Jackson County.

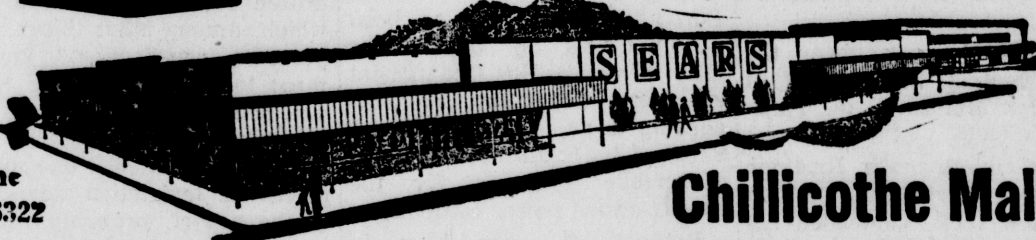

Rhodes ordered an investigation after a newspaper report indicated that other insurance companies were not informed of the plan to cover 7,900 men who operate state owned vehicles or equipment.

Pritchard 'Coach Of Year'

SVC All-Star '5' Picked By Coaches

The Scioto Valley Conference Basketball coaches Thursday named Charles Pritchard of Logan Elm Coach of the Year and Dave Juenger of Unioto Player of the Year.

The two selections were made during a meeting held at the Fox Farm in Chillicothe when the All-Conference team was selected.

Westfall and Logan Elm co-champions of the SVC, each placed two cagers on the 11-man dream team and each had one tabbed for honorable mention.

The Mustangs selected were Tony Lightle and Jeff Bigam while Gene Carfrey made the honorable mention list.

FOR the Braves, Danny Fausnaugh and Dennis Karshner were selected for the first team and Royce Woolever gained honorable mention honors.

Mike Knece, Laurelville's outstanding little shooter, was picked to the first unit as was his teammate, Mike Shaw. A National Honor Society member, Knece averaged 23 points a game.

In addition to Juenger, the SVC coaches named Bob Mallott of Unioto to the first team.

Other first team members were Chuck Sowers of Adena, Keith Shoemaker of Paint Valley and Dave Waldron of Picketon.

The honorable mention list included, in addition to Woolever and Carfrey, Garrett Powers of Paint Valley, Dwight Garrett and Randy Beverly of Adena; Joe Ward and Danny Emmer of Picketon.

Lightle, a 6-4 senior, is averaging about 14 points per game and is the best defensive player on the Westfall Squad according to Coach Paul Hoskins. Lightle is a repeater on the squad and was named to the second team All-Central District squad.

BIGAM, a 6-1 junior, is averaging 20 points per game for the Mustangs and was a first team All-District player.

Danny Fausnaugh, Logan Elm's hustling guard, is averaging 15 points per game. He was a first team All-District selection. Dennis Karshner, 6-4, is averaging over 12 points for the Braves, and is a player that "gives 100 per cent all of the times," according to Pritchard.

Woolever was a first team All-District cager but the 6-9 center did not get enough votes to make the first team All-SVC. Juenger, the player of the year, is "the best all-around

Philadelphia Rips Chicago, 113-106

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eggs flew in Cincinnati Thursday night, but it was the games in Chicago and San Diego that left the National Basketball Association races scrambled.

In Chicago, Philadelphia beat the Bulls 113-106 and boosted its second-place margin in the Eastern Division to 1 1/2 games over idle New York. The setback also put a crimp in Chicago's playoff hopes when San Diego stopped Detroit 120-105 and sneaked past the Bulls into fourth place in the West by 11 percentage points.

Cincinnati, egged on by its fans, got by Boston 120-110 and Seattle swamped Milwaukee 141-118 in a game between also-rans.

Alcindor Hurt; May Make Saturday Game

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA beat New Mexico State, but now Johnny Wooden, coach of the nation's top-ranked college basketball team, has a new worry.

All-American Lew Alcindor, UCLA's agile 7-foot-1 1/2 giant, twisted his right ankle after scoring 16 points in leading the Bruins over the Aggies 53-38 in the West Regional of the NCAA championship tourney at Los Angeles Thursday night.

A UCLA spokesman said the injury was not serious, but even a slightly below par Alcindor could jeopardize the Bruins' chances when they play the third-ranked Santa Clara Broncos in the West Regional final Saturday afternoon.

"It will be at least late Friday afternoon before we have any definite word as to his exact shape," Wooden said.

Santa Clara blew an 18-point lead against Weber State, but pulled out a 63-59 overtime victory over the Big Sky Conference champs. Weber almost pulled the upset of the night, but Dave Sackolwitz missed two free throws with six seconds left in regulation time and the score tied 55-55.

"Our sophomores were just too excited," said Phil Johnson, Weber State coach.

Duquesne similarly almost pulled off a stunner against North Carolina before losing 79-78 to the fourth-ranked Tar Heels in the East Regional at College Park, Md.

North Carolina, which at one time led by 14 points at 67-53, won on two field goals by soph Lee Demon on passes from Charlie Scott in the final 28 seconds.

"Time just ran out on us," said a dejected Red Manning, the Duquesne coach.

Marquette and Colorado State U. did register upsets. Marquette whipped seventh-ranked Kentucky 81-74 in the Midwest Regional at Madison, Wis., and Colorado State knocked off favored Colorado 64-56 in the Midwest Regional at Manhattan, Kan., despite 32 points by Colorado's soph, Cliff Meely.

"The boys were sky high for this one," said a happy Al McGuire, the Marquette coach, after Kentucky's defeat.

Mike Maloy's 35 points paced fifth-ranked Davidson over the eighth-ranked St. John's Redmen 79-69, Rick Mount's 32 points led sixth-ranked Purdue in a 91-71 rout of Miami of Ohio and Willie McCarter's 24 points sparked Drake over Texas A&M 81-63 in the other NCAA regional games.

At College Park, Md., 2:15 p.m., North Carolina, 26-3, vs. Davidson, 27-2.

At Madison, Wis., 4:05 p.m., Purdue, 21-4, vs. Marquette, 24-4.

At Manhattan, Kan., 4:15 p.m., Drake, 24-4, vs. Colorado State U., 17-6.

At Los Angeles, 6:05 p.m., UCLA, 26-1, vs. Santa Clara, 27-1.

There was activity in other postseason tourneys.

Temple routed Florida 82-66 and St. Peters of New Jersey upset Tulsa 75-71 in the opening of the NIT at New York.

Kentucky Wesleyan, the defending champion, edged American International 83-82 in overtime and Southwest Missouri upset top-seeded Ashland of Ohio 58-48 in the semifinals of the NCAA College Division tourney at Evansville, Ind.

In the quarter-finals of the other small college tourney, the NAIA at Kansas City, Eastern New Mexico beat High Point 77-73, Central Washington downed Henderson 68-64, Elizabeth City edged Washburn 90-88 and Maryland State conquered Monmouth, N.J., 99-94.

Columbus East Beats Zanesville

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus East continues its drive for a second straight Class AA high school basketball title but Class A champ Mansfield St. Peter has reached the end of the line.

The No. 1 ranked Tigers survived a scare from sixth ranked Zanesville Thursday night before emerging with a 72-65 triumph in a first round Columbus regional skirmish.

But St. Peter, plagued by foul trouble that saw four of its starters go to the sidelines, fell before determined Fort Recovery, 72-64.

In other first round regional combat, Cleveland St. Joseph overwhelmed Youngstown Ursuline 74 - 47 at Canton in a Double-A contest while Upper Scioto Valley turned back Archbold 67-65 in overtime at Toledo and Springfield Local whipped Badger 67-51 at Canton in small school skirmishes.

Class AA at Canton—Canton McKinley, 23-1 vs. Cleveland St. Joseph, 22-2; at Columbus—Columbus East, 22-0, vs. Newark, 20-3.

Class A at Canton — Bridgeport, 23-1 vs. Springfield Local, 20-4; at Bowling Green—Upper Scioto Valley, 23-1 vs. Fort Recovery, 25-1.

Unbeaten East had trouble putting away ambitious Zanesville and trailed 19 - 14 in the early going. But Dwight Lamar's 23 points and Nick Conner's 17 and 14 rebounds got the Tigers rolling in the second half. The Tigers led at intermission 37-33 and by 15 with 1:12 left.

It was the 22nd straight victory this season for East, now boasting a 46 - game winning string and 67 in its last 68 outings. Zanesville, which got a 21-point effort from Troy Walker, bowed out with a 20-2 mark.

St. Joseph's strong front line wore down smaller Ursuline

Ben Hogan Probably Out Of Golf Game

DALLAS (AP) — Ben Hogan won't be playing in his beloved Masters next month. In fact, the odds are a million-to-one that the feared Texas hawk of the fairways won't play a competitive round of golf this year.

The 56-year-old Hogan, a living legend in golf, told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview today, "I don't think I will play this year unless I can find a miracle and those are pretty hard to find."

Pain shoots through Hogan's shoulder each time he swings a golf club as a result of a crippling automobile accident in 1949 in which he was nearly killed.

Hogan said "the Masters is definitely out. I will be going down there Tuesday for a meeting of the Masters' Club, but I won't be in the tournament at Augusta. I've tried hitting some balls and there is no way I can play decent golf."

The four-time winner of the U.S. Open, two-time winner of the Masters, and former PGA and British Open titlist underwent surgery in New Orleans late last year. The doctor cut away calcium and tissue from his shoulder. Hogan went back recently for a checkup.

"They corrected what they went in there to do and the doctor told me I could play golf when I felt like it," Hogan said.

"Well, I can do everything but play golf. I just wish I could see some daylight up ahead. I sure hate to keep getting cut on."

LBWA Scratch Trio Tournament Slated

The Lancaster Women's Bowling Assn. Classic Scratch Trio Tournament will be held at Starlite Lanes in Baltimore May 4.

Deadline for entries is April 5, it was announced today by Marge Mumford, secretary of the LBWA. Entry blanks are available at bowling lanes in Lancaster and Circleville.

Alcindor Hurt; May Make Saturday Game

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
UCLA beat New Mexico State, but now Johnny Wooden, coach of the nation's top-ranked college basketball team, has a new worry.

All-American Lew Alcindor,

UCLA's agile 7-foot-1 1/2 giant, twisted his right ankle after scoring 16 points in leading the Bruins over the Aggies 53-38 in the West Regional of the NCAA championship tourney at Los Angeles Thursday night.

A UCLA spokesman said the injury was not serious, but even a slightly below par Alcindor could jeopardize the Bruins' chances when they play the third-ranked Santa Clara Broncos in the West Regional final Saturday afternoon.

"It will be at least late Friday afternoon before we have any definite word as to his exact shape," Wooden said.

Santa Clara blew an 18-point lead against Weber State, but pulled out a 63-59 overtime victory over the Big Sky Conference champs. Weber almost pulled the upset of the night, but Dave Sackolwitz missed two free throws with six seconds left in regulation time and the score tied 55-55.

"Our sophomores were just too excited," said Phil Johnson, Weber State coach.

Duquesne similarly almost pulled off a stunner against North Carolina before losing 79-73 to the fourth-ranked Tar Heels in the East Regional at College Park, Md.

North Carolina, which at one time led by 14 points at 67-53, won on two field goals by sophomore Lee Demon on passes from Charlie Scott in the final 28 seconds.

"Time just ran out on us," said a dejected Red Manning, the Duquesne coach.

Marquette and Colorado State U. did register upsets. Marquette whipped seventh-ranked Kentucky 81-74 in the Midwest Regional at Madison, Wis., and Colorado State knocked off favored Colorado 64-56 in the Midwest Regional at Manhattan, Kan., despite 32 points by Colorado's soph, Cliff Meely.

"The boys were sky high for this one," said a happy Al McGuire, the Marquette coach, after Kentucky's defeat.

Mike Maloy's 35 points paced fifth-ranked Davidson over the eighth-ranked St. John's Redmen 79-69. Rick Mount's 32 points led sixth-ranked Purdue in a 91-71 rout of Miami of Ohio and Willie McCarter's 24 points sparked Drake over Texas A&M 81-63 in the other NCAA regional games.

The results set up these national quarter-final matches Saturday afternoon. Time is Eastern Standard.

At College Park, Md., 2:15 p.m., North Carolina, 28-3, vs. Davidson, 27-2.

At Madison, Wis., 4:05 p.m., Purdue, 21-4, vs. Marquette, 24-4.

At Manhattan, Kan., 4:15 p.m., Drake, 24-4, vs. Colorado State U., 17-6.

At Los Angeles, 6:05 p.m., UCLA, 26-1, vs. Santa Clara, 27-1.

There was activity in other postseason tourneys.

Temple routed Florida 82-66 and St. Peters of New Jersey upset Tulsa 75-71 in the opening of the NIT at New York.

Kentucky Wesleyan, the defending champion, edged American International 83-82 in overtime and Southwest Missouri upset top-seeded Ashland of Ohio 58-48 in the semifinals of the NCAA College Division tourney at Evansville, Ind.

In the quarter-finals of the other small college tourney, the NAIA at Kansas City, Eastern New Mexico beat High Point 77-73. Central Washington downed Henderson 68-64, Elizabethton beat Washington 90-88 and Maryland State conquered Monmouth, N.J., 99-94.

Columbus East Beats Zanesville

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus East continues its drive for a second straight Class AA high school basketball title but Class A champ Mansfield St. Peter has reached the end of the line.

The No. 1 ranked Tigers survived a scare from sixth ranked Zanesville Thursday night before emerging with a 72-65 triumph in a first round Columbus regional skirmish.

But St. Peter, plagued by foul trouble that saw four of its starters go to the sidelines, fell before determined Fort Recovery, 72-64.

In other first round regional combat, Cleveland St. Joseph overwhelmed Youngstown Ursuline 74-47 at Canton in a Double-A contest while Upper Scioto Valley turned back Archbold 67-65 in overtime at Toledo and Springfield Local whipped Badger 67-51 at Canton in small school skirmishes.

Those results set up these regional finales Saturday with the victors advancing to the state tournament at St. John Arena here March 21-22:

Class AA at Canton—Canton McKinley, 23-1 vs. Cleveland St. Joseph, 22-2; at Columbus—Columbus East, 22-0, vs. Newark, 20-3.

Class A at Canton—Bridgeport, 23-1 vs. Springfield Local, 20-4; at Bowling Green—Upper Scioto Valley, 23-1 vs. Fort Recovery, 25-1.

Unbeaten East had trouble putting away ambitious Zanesville and trailed 19-14 in the early going. But Dwight Lamar's 23 points and Nick Conner's 17 and 14 rebounds got the Tigers rolling in the second half. The Tigers led at intermission 37-33 and by 15 with 1:12 left.

It was the 22nd straight victory this season for East, now boasting a 46-0 game winning string and 67 in its last 68 outings. Zanesville, which got a 21-point effort from Troy Walker, bowed out with a 20-2 mark. St. Joseph's strong front line wore down smaller Ursuline with a 25-point fourth quarter as Pat Lyons led the victorious Vikings with 26 points. Tim Delaney scored 17 for the losing Irish, who finished 14-9.

Mansfield St. Pete saw its dream for a second straight crown shattered by Fort Recovery's comeback kids. Down 34-23 at halftime, the Indians, capturing their 25th in 26 starts, finally caught up in the fourth quarter.

Ken Heiby drilled in 25 and teammate Dale Metzger added 22, 14 of 18 from the foul line, as Recovery dropped in 47 of 48 chances from the charity stripe. Whitney Varga got 25 for the Spartans.

The winning Rams trailed at halftime 40-30 but rallied behind the shooting of Steve Longbrake, who canned 25. Archbold's Dalynn Badenhop also delivered 25. Valley boosted its record to 23-1.

Springfield Local, a state finalist last year, broke away from upstart Badger in the final four minutes as Grant Parks scored 11 of his 27 points in the tall-tale last quarter. Rich Stevens paced Badger with 18 points.

Springfield moved up to 20-4 while Badger finished with a 14-11 record.

Ben Hogan Probably Out Of Golf Game

DALLAS (AP) — Ben Hogan won't be playing in his beloved Masters next month. In fact, the odds are a million-to-one that the feared Texas hawk of the fairways won't play a competitive round of golf this year.

The 56-year-old Hogan, a living legend in golf, told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview today, "I don't think I will play this year unless I can find a miracle and those are pretty hard to find."

Pain shoots through Hogan's shoulder each time he swings a golf club as a result of a crippling automobile accident in 1949 in which he was nearly killed.

Hogan said "the Masters is definitely out. I will be going down there Tuesday for a meeting of the Masters' Club, but I won't be in the tournament at Augusta. I've tried hitting some balls and there is no way I can play decent golf."

The four-time winner of the U.S. Open, two-time winner of the Masters, and former PGA and British Open titlist underwent surgery in New Orleans late last year. The doctor cut away calcium and tissue from his shoulder. Hogan went back recently for a checkup.

"They corrected what they went in there to do and the doctor told me I could play golf when I felt like it," Hogan said.

"Well, I can do everything but play golf. I just wish I could see some daylight up ahead. I sure hate to keep getting cut on."

Covering Of Snow Brings Good Ski Resort Conditions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Skiing got a new lease on life in Ohio this week.

A little snow, plus below normal temperatures add up to a favorable outlook for the fun at state resorts this weekend.

Seven of the 11 resorts report to the Development Department Thursday and all rated conditions at least good... some very good.

Favorable conditions also are reported at slopes in Western Pennsylvania and Western New York, but the conditions are rated below par in Southeastern Michigan.

OHIO
Sugar Creek, Bellbrook 2-12 base, good; Valley High, Bellefontaine 30 base, 4 new powder, good; Clearfork, Butler, 30-base 2 new snow, very good to excellent; Alpine Valley, Chesterland 2-10 base, good Brandywine at Northfield 4-18 base, good Mont Chalet, Chesterland 4-12 base, good to very good Snow Trails, Mansfield 24-base, good to very good.

PENNSYLVANIA
Big Boulder 20-45 base, excellent; Buck Hill 10-22 base, machine powder, good to excellent; Elk Mountain 22-70 base, granular; Bear Rocks 5-14 base, excellent; Blue Knob 15-30 base, good; Seven Springs 8-34 base, excellent; Camelback 10-55 base granular good.

WESTERN NEW YORK
Glenwood Acres 1 new, 50 base, excellent; Holiday Valley, 2 new, 38 base, very good to excellent; Sears Eagle Ridge, 1 new, 36 base, excellent; Cockaigne, 1 new, 4-16 base, excellent; Bristol Mt., 5 new, 14-40 base, excellent; Kissing Bridge, 1 new 36 base, good to excellent; Peek 'n Peak, 2 new, 5-15 base, excellent.

SOUTHEASTERN MICHIGAN
Mt. Brighton, 15 base, making new snow; Alpine Valley, 4 new, 10 base; Pine Knob, 8-10 base; Irish Hills, 1-2 new, 8 base; Mt. Gramplan, may be closed if weather is warm; Mt. Holly, closed.

Our business is your pleasure. That's why we build so many cars and trucks with your leisure in mind. There's everything from America's only true production sports car to America's first king-size pickup for campers. And there's everything in between.

Like the low, wide and handsome Camaro "Hugger". The quick-size Chevelle. Two sizes of "walk-in" station wagons, plus the Sportvan and Suburban Carryall.

Then, there's America's favorite way to get away from it all: Impala. Nothing else in its field comes on as strong. (A 235-horsepower regular gas V8 is standard equipment.) So whether you want to pull a trailer, a boat or make a fast getaway, Chevrolet's got what you want. In your Chevrolet dealer's Sports - Recreation Dept.

Just for the fun of it, move your leisure outside.

- Series 20 Longhorn Pickup with over-cab camper body.
- Series 30 Chassis-Cab with frame-mounted camper body.
- Series 10 Fleetside Pickup with shell camper body.

Mets Lose, Even With New Ball

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The baseball had more bounce to the ounce but the outcome was pretty much old hat to the New York Mets.

In a test to help give major league baseball some more offense, a ball with 10 per cent more resiliency was used in Thursday's exhibition game between the Mets and Detroit.

It was an old-fashioned 1968 pitcher's battle for three innings. Then, the Tigers' Dick McAuliffe, Norm Cash and Gates Brown bounced three balls into orbit in a six-run fourth inning and the world champions made off with a 7-4 win.

"That ball sure got livelier in the fourth inning," grinned Don Cardwell, victim of the assault. "The dugouts agree that the ball is livelier," reported Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who visited both benches during the game. "The ball has a higher seam and appears to come to be slightly smaller, although it measures to specifications."

"It will have to be tested more extensively than two games," he continued, noting that it will be used again in today's exhibition between San Francisco and California at Phoenix, Ariz. "We might try it this summer in the rookie leagues," he added.

Denny McLain, Detroit's 31-game winner and perennial gopher ball king, hurled four scoreless innings with the bouncy ball.

"I wish they'd leave the game alone," he said. "They're making it too complicated." But he said it was "highly appropriate" that he was the first pitcher to throw it. "Now," he laughed, "they'll find out how far it can travel."

The holdout ranks lost a member when first baseman Willie

McCovey signed a two-year contract with the Giants for an estimated $85,000. Manager Clyde King said he would put his big slugger into the line-up at once. "You know what it looks like," King chortled. "It looks like I'm sitting before a great big piece of strawberry shortcake and can't wait to tear into it."

The most prominent remaining holdouts are San Francisco's Juan Marichal, Minnesota's Kim Kaat and Al Downing of the New York Yankees.

Willie Mays put the whipped cream on King's strawberry shortcake Thursday with a three-run double that powered the Giants to a 4-1 win over San Diego.

The expansion Seattle Pilots split their squad and came away with two victories. One game edged Oakland 3-2 on Lou Piniella's two-run double and Mike Hegan's steal of home. The other contingent nipped California 7-6 with a three-run eighth-inning rally.

Larry Jaster hurled six innings of one-hit ball—Doug Rader's single in the second—and Bob Bailey and John Bateman homered in Montreal's 8-2 conquest of Houston.

Newly acquired Vada Pinson homered and tripled as St. Louis toppled Philadelphia 5-3. Rookie outfielder Carlos May batted the Chicago White Sox to a 4-1 triumph over Atlanta with three runs batted in.

Washington made it seven straight losses for winless Manager Ted Williams, bowing 3-2 to Baltimore on Don Buford's home. Bill Sudakis of Los Angeles and Chuck Manuel of Minnesota singled home runs in the 10th innings of their respective games as the Dodgers beat Boston 6-5 and the Twins downed Cincinnati 3-2.

Tony Horton knocked in three runs as Cleveland walloped the Chicago Cubs 7-0 and Luis Alcaraz drove in three runs with as many singles in Kansas City's 7-1 triumph over the Yankees.

Houston Tops Kentuckians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Houston broke an eight-game losing streak and in the process knocked Kentucky out of first place in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association.

The Mavericks, playing at home, overcame a 12-point halftime deficit to whip the Colonels 126-110 Thursday night. That tumbled the Colonels into second place in the East behind the Indiana Pacers who walloped the New York Nets 125-87 at Indianapolis.

Stew Johnson threw in 37 points to pace Houston with teammates Bob Verga and Keith Swaggerty adding 29 and 28, respectively. Louie Dampier got 27 for Kentucky.

Indiana pulled away from a 42-42 halftime tie behind 25 points by Freddie Lewis and 24 by Roger Brown to down the Nets. Willie Somerset was high for New York with 19.

Don Freeman's 35 points, including eight in an overtime period, sparked Miami to a 124-121 victory over Dallas on a neutral court in St. Louis. Dallas led by 19 points at one time in the first half, but Miami rallied to the regulation game at 113-113 on two free throws by Ron Boone with 22 seconds left. Cincy Powell was high for Dallas with 24.

Los Angeles scored a 142-119 home court victory over Denver in the other ABA game scheduled.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
The Ohio Department of Natural Resources through the Division of Parks and Recreation pursuant to the provisions of Section 1501.09 and 1501.091 of the Ohio Revised Code, proposes to contract for the operation of a marine and miscellaneous refreshment concession at A. W. Marion State Park in Pickaway County, Ohio.

Official bid proposals will be received in the office of the Division of Parks and Recreation until 2:00 P.M., March 23, 1969. Bids will be publicly opened thereafter by the Chief or his authorized agent. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

The contract will be for a term of four years and eight months from May 1, 1969 to December 31, 1973. The Division of Parks and Recreation will furnish one frame building approximately 14 feet by 22 feet, 150 feet of shoreline and assigned land.

Concessionaire will furnish all other equipment, material, merchandise, supplies, utilities and labor necessary to operate the concession to approved standards. Requests for bid proposal forms should be made to the Division of Parks and Recreation, Room 913, Ohio Department Building, Columbus, Ohio 43215. Telephone (614) 469-3277.

Marquette Knocks Off Rupp's Boys

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Purdue and Marquette remained in the running, but Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp was denied a bid for a fifth NCAA basketball title Thursday night.

Marquette knocked off Kentucky, 81-74, and Purdue crushed Miami (Ohio) University, 91-71, in the opening round of the mid-east regional at the University of Wisconsin. The Warriors of Marquette and Purdue's Boilermakers will clash for the title and a trip to the national finals this afternoon following a third place game between the losers.

Marquette used board control and balanced scoring to knock off highly-touted Kentucky in Thursday night's opening contest. George Thompson, an Associated Press All-America honorable mention, scored 22 points to lead the Warriors to their victory over the seventh-ranked Wildcats.

Topping the Wildcat attack was Mike Casey with 24 points. Rick Mount, Purdue's All-American, funneled in 32 points as the Big Ten champions had an easy time rolling over out-manned Miami. He connected on 12-of-20 from the floor and 8-of-8 from the free throw line, giving the sell-out crowd of 12,500 a demonstration of his talents.

Sixth-ranked Purdue suffered a big blow, however, when it was discovered after the game that center Chuck Davis had suffered either a broken collarbone or shoulder separation. He will be lost to the Boilermakers for the remainder of the tournament.

Top Hockey Teams Tie In Standings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The National Hockey League has more ties than daddy on Christmas morning.

Toronto tripped Oakland 3-1 Thursday night to tie Detroit for fourth place in the East Division while Philadelphia nipped Boston 2-1 and deadlocked Los Angeles for third place in the West.

In another contest, Montreal rallied to tie the Minnesota 4-4 and open a three-point lead over Boston in the race for the East pennant.

4 Golfers Tie For Monsanto Open Lead

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — For US Open champion Lee Trevino, happiness is money. For rookie Larry Hinson, who shares a one-stroke lead with Trevino, Tommy Aaron and Bruce Crampton going into today's second round of the $100,000 Monsanto Open, happiness is making the cut.

For perennial runner-up Aaron, happiness has to be winning a tournament after nine years on the tour.

For Australia's Crampton, it's his young son Jay—and the chance of winning his first regular PGA tournament since the 1965 Indianapolis 500 Festival.

The four players, as different as sun and rain, all fired 67s Thursday over the wind-swept par 71 Pensacola Country Club course to lead the field of 150 seeking the $20,000 first prize at this third stop on the rich Florida circuit.

Trevino's 53-34 came with five birdies, one bogey and some "awfully good putting."

"Happiness is money," said the former shoe shine boy who won last year and added $20,000 more last month when he won at Tucson.

But for Hinson, a quiet 24-year-old blond from Douglas, Ga., success is making the 36-hole cut so he doesn't have to play in a qualifying round for the next tournament.

Aaron skipped the customary news conferences for leaders Thursday, but his comments already are well recorded.

"I've heard it's nice to win a tournament," he says. "I'd like to know how it feels."

Astronauts' Families Wait For Heroes To Come Home

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 9 wives, radiant and rejoicing, looked forward to a reunion with their triumphant astronaut husbands today.

"Oh, boy, am I ever eager to see him!" bubbled Pat McDivitt, the blonde wife of Apollo 9 commander James A. McDivitt. "I just thought he looked great."

The Apollo crew, who splashed down Thursday after a risky 10-day space mission, were headed for Houston by air shuttle from the recovery ship Guadalcanal.

They were due at Ellington Air Force base near the Manned Spacecraft Center at midafternoon.

"There aren't words to express how I feel . . . I am maybe the happiest person alive," Ann Scott, wife of Apollo pilot David R. Scott, said after the Atlantic splashdown.

"I was just anxious to see those parachutes coming down."

"We screamed and clapped our hands," said Clare Schweickart, wife of space walker Russell L. Schweickart, as she explained her reaction to the television picture of the spaceship floating through the clouds.

Her young son Rusty said he recognized his dad immediately although "he was skinnier and younger."

Scott was the first to step from the bobbing spacecraft to a life raft and "he really shot out of there like a jackrabbit," his wife remarked.

"It was so good to see him," Pat McDivitt said the high point for her came last Friday "when that LEM (lunar module) showed itself to be a beautiful piece of machinery."

She was asked her reaction when the television cameras spotted the billowing parachutes with the spaceship dangling below.

"You were screaming," her oldest daughter, Ann, 10, interrupted.

"Yeah," Mrs. McDivitt admitted. "I was screaming."

Laurelville Senior Play Cast Named

Casting has now been completed for the Laurelville High School Senior Class production of "Our Town," the outstanding Pulitzer Prize winning play by Thornton Wilder. The play is under the direction of Martin Mitchell.

Jim Stevens will portray the central character of the "stage manager" immortalized during the original New York run by the late and great Frank Craven, whose performance in the part has become a stage legend.

Other featured players in the unusually large cast are: Joe Cavinee, Larry Winland, Mike DeLong, Marlene Phillips, Shelley Robinette, Mike Knece, Charma Kerr, Dave Berard, Diane Kidwell, Mike Poling, Dave Hankison, Dave Stump, Virginia Hartley, Becky Cavinee, Penny Short, Joyce Danner, Bill McNichols, Randy Keck, Gerald Disbennett, Ray Harper, John Winland, Jim Fortner, Susie Disbennett and Sharon VanPossen.

"Our Town," from the time it was awarded the Pulitzer Prize, has added to its stature until it now ranks as one of the few "American Classics" of the theater. The LHS Senior Class presentation of this distinguished play will take place at the Laurelville High School Gymnasium March 21.

Solons Back Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D - Ohio, voiced the only objection before the Senate confirmed by a voice vote Thursday President Nixon's nomination of Walter H. Annenberg as ambassador to Great Britain.

"A political nomination—pure and simple," Young said in opposing confirmation of Annenberg, a Philadelphia publisher and philanthropist.

Prompt Report Of Address Change Urged

Residents of the six county area served by the Chillicothe Social Security office, who are receiving monthly social security checks are reminded by Robert M. Martin, social security manager in Chillicothe, to report directly to the Chillicothe office any change of address or other events affecting continued receipt of their checks.

Reports may be made by mail, phone, or in person. Appropriate report forms are available at the Chillicothe Social Security Office at 606 Central Center.

Martin said this reporting method enables the district office to take advantage of the increased capacity of its high speed communications circuits to transmit information to record centers. Until recently, social security beneficiaries were encouraged to notify the Social Security Administration about the occurrence of these events by mailing pre-addressed postcard forms to a record center.

Some events that affect receipt of monthly social security checks, in addition to address changes, are starting or stopping work (employment), marriage or remarriage, divorce and death.

Gary Leasure Wounded In Vietnam

PFC Gary Leasure, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Leasure, 324 S. Washington St. and the husband of the former Linda Spiller, was wounded in action in Vietnam March 1.

He has been awarded the Purple Heart for the injuries received in action.

A graduate of Circleville High School, Leasure entered the service in September, 1963, and has been in Vietnam since Feb. 4. He lost a finger from his left hand as a result of the injuries.

He is in an evacuating hospital near Saigon according to information given the family.

Family Swim Night Planned By YMCA

On Tuesday, the Pickaway County YMCA will hold another Family Swim at the Chillicothe YMCA.

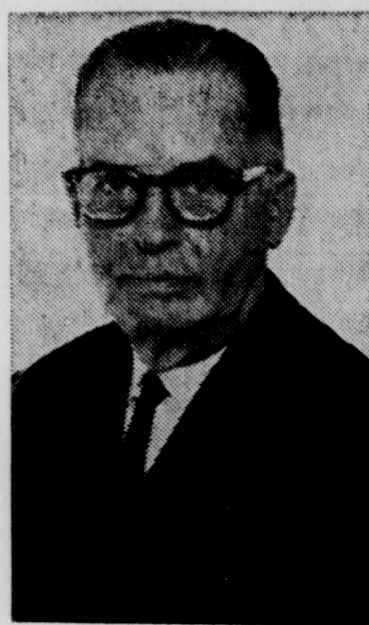

All YMCA members, youth and adults affiliated through club memberships, are encouraged to participate in this "Y" family event. Everyone is welcome to participate. There will be a fee for those not affiliated with the Y.M.C.A.

Eighty-seven youth and adults participated in the last swim held by the local YMCA. Other family activities are being planned and will include picnics, a family camp-out over Memorial Day weekend, square dancing at the YMCA and other family activities.

Those interested in family programs and YMCA youth programs are reminded of the YMCA membership campaign and the need for their support through the purchase of family memberships.

Reservations for the swim can be made by calling the YMCA office at 474-8621.

Du Pont Supervisor Retires

J. H. HATCHER

J. Hiram Hatcher, personnel supervisor at the local DuPont plant has elected to retire after 38 years of service with the company.

He has been with DuPont since March, 1931. His association began as an operator at the Old Hickory Cellophane Plant in Nashville, Tenn.

In 1937, he was promoted to foreman, then to shift supervisor in manufacturing. He later became inspection supervisor of the plant and in February, 1953, was appointed personnel and employment supervisor of the Old Hickory installation.

His transfer to Circleville came in September of 1953 where he served as personnel supervisor.

Hatcher is a member of the Presbyterian Church, BPO Elks Lodge 77 and a 32nd Degree Mason.

He and his wife, Laurine, reside at 122 Seyfert Ave. They are parents of two children. Daughter Harriet is a hostess with TWA International and son, John Jr., is currently in Vietnam.

Most In Ray Case Back Conspiracy Theory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Debate over whether the Martin Luther King assassination was the work of James Earl Ray alone or the result of a conspiracy is widespread and growing.

Those who say Ray conspired with others include King's widow and close associates, an attorney Ray fired, a brother of the assassin and, more or less indirectly, Ray himself.

Those who say only that there is no evidence to indicate a conspiracy include the judge and prosecutor in the case, Ray's official biographer and former U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

The only principal in the debate who has stated flatly that no conspiracy existed has been Percy Foreman, Ray's lawyer when the case ended. He put it this way in court in Memphis last Monday:

"It took me months to prove to myself . . . that it was not a conspiracy."

But Ray then stood up in court and said, without elaboration, that he personally did not agree with the theory that there was no conspiracy.

John Larry Ray, a brother of the killer, lined up on the side of the believers in a conspiracy in an interview printed in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch Thursday.

Ray quoted brother James as having told him:

"I am not the only one in on this."

"My brother," John Ray was quoted as telling an interviewer, "said there was someone else in on this 'deal' but it had been hushed up by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. I didn't press him on what he meant."

Coretta King, widow of the slain Negro leader, said after the trial the "search for the many fingers which pulled the trigger" should continue.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, who succeeded King as president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, pledged the organization's vigilance "until justice is meted out to all of the perpetrators."

The Rev. Andrew Young, SCLC executive vice president, said he thought Ray "was at most merely a tool or a pawn."

Ray was called "a dupe" by Arthur Hanes, Jr., his original attorney, a former mayor of Birmingham, Ala. Hanes said there was no question in his mind that "there was a plot involved."

Judge W. Preston Battle, who presided over the final hearing, told newsmen that the prosecution "at this time is not in possession of enough evidence to indict anyone as a co-conspirator in this case. Of course, this is not conclusive evidence that there was no conspiracy."

William Bradford Huie, who wrote several magazine articles about Ray based on interviews before the trial, said he doubted whether there was a conspiracy. "But I do not know this and Ray insists otherwise," he added.

U.S. Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said Wednesday his internal security subcommittee would gather facts in the case. "It's obvious to me that Ray had some kind of help," Eastland said.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Justice Department was continuing its own investigation.

A warrant filed by the FBI in Birmingham, Ala. on April 17, less than two weeks after King's death, alleged that Eric Starvo Galt—an alias used by Ray—"and an individual whom he alleged to be his brother" entered into a conspiracy to violate King's civil rights.

When Ray was arrested, U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said "We have to go on evidence and facts. At this time we have no evidence of a conspiracy."

If any evidence has turned up since, federal officials are keeping mum. The FBI said Thursday night it would have no comment.

Astronauts' Families Wait For Heroes To Come Home

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 9 wives, radiant and rejoicing, looked forward to a reunion with their triumphant astronaut husbands today.

"Oh, boy, am I ever eager to see him!" bubbled Pat McDivitt, the blonde wife of Apollo 9 commander James A. McDivitt. "I just thought he looked great."

The Apollo crew, who splashed down Thursday after a risky 19-day space mission, were headed for Houston by air shuttle from the recovery ship Guadalcanal.

They were due at Ellington Air Force base near the Manned Spacecraft Center at mid-afternoon.

"There aren't words to express how I feel... I am maybe the happiest person alive," Ann Scott, wife of Apollo pilot David R. Scott, said after the Atlantic splashdown.

"I was just anxious to see those parachutes coming down."

"We screamed and clapped our hands," said Clare Schweickart, wife of space walker Russell L. Schweickart, as she explained her reaction to the television picture of the spaceship floating through the clouds.
